About the campus

Flagship campus of Maryland's 11 institution system, College Park offers 98 undergraduate majors, 82 master's programs, and 68 doctoral programs in the University's 13 schools and colleges.

Maryland College Park is one of only 30 public research universities that belong to the prestigious 58 member Association of American Universities.

It is the only public institution in the Maryland—District of Columbia area with membership in the nation's most distinguished honor society, Phi Beta Kappa.

Maryland College Park is classified as a Research-1 university by the Carnegie Foundation by virtue of the range of its baccalaureate programs, the amount of federal support received, and the number of doctoral degrees awarded each year. The University shares that honor with the top research universities in the country.

Among public universities in the Association of American Universities, College Park ranks first in the percentage of African American undergraduate students. In addition, the university has the largest number of African American and other minority faculty members among its peers.

FOOTBALL IN THE PARK

Welcome 1
The University in the Park frames the perfect football Saturday.

Happy campers in the Park 2
Game Day at Maryland: The State Flag leading the Terrapins on to the field after they touch Testudo's nose for good luck; long bombs on the field and long tables of food as part of a tailgating extravaganza; Terp faithful cheering loudly and a cannon roaring after a score; marching bands and cheerleaders and a pom pon line. Terrapin Game Day is what's best about football.

Park Headquarters . . .4
So much is new about football's home in the Park. $20 million was spent in the past three years on construction and stadium up-grades. State-of-the-art locker rooms, strength and conditioning and sports medicine areas, are already in place.

Park Stadium 6
The 90's thus far saw Byrd Stadium's concrete bowl and seating redone, a new press box, concession stands and rest areas installed. More is on the way.

Park Experts 8
Over 50 offensive school records set in two years, and nine Atlantic Coast Conference marks—The staff directing the explosion in the Park is a resourceful one, working with a young team that promises to get better and better.

Park Standards 9
The Terrapin offense set 26 school records a year ago. Only one other time in school history have offensive numbers been posted like 1993's—in 1992, Mark Duffner's first year. Wide receivers Jermaine Lewis and Russ Weaver, Quarterback Scott Milanovich and Running Back Allen Williams are returnees who over ran Park Standards.

Park Mountains 10
The Park has its mountains—formed inside the 7,500 square foot strength and conditioning area. Nature takes it course by combining goal-oriented enthusiasm and the best weight training facilities.

Park Paragons 12
The list of those acquiring fame beyond the borders of the Park continues to grow. Randy White, as good a defensive tackle as any to play the game, and Terrapin quarterbacks, lots of them, earned notice on other fields.

Park Animal Life 14
He runs the sidelines, and he's a furry Terrapin: he's Testudo, King of the Park.

Park Monuments 15
He sits on a red brick throne and he's bronzed: he's Testudo, King of the Park.

Park Colors, Flag . . .16
If you live in Maryland, you live under The Flag. If you compete in the Park, you play under it.

University in the Park 17
A history of the University, in its 136th year as an educational mecca, is recounted. Two important additions to the quality of campus life are highlighted—the $206 million National Archives, within site of Byrd Stadium, and the College Park Metro Station.

University in the Park 18
Team Maryland is the nation's only academically sanctioned student/athlete outreach group. The community benefits from Terrapin role models.

Park Academic Support 20-21
Overlooking the Football Complex is the Academic Support Unit. Located between the Complex and much of campus, it's at the center of a student/athlete's life.

Surrounding the Park 22-23
The Park was founded almost 150 years ago. Since then some attractions have grown around it: Washington, Baltimore and Annapolis. The Chesapeake has always been there.

Park Map . . . . . .IBC

Mark Sturdivant reflects the pleasure of graduation from Maryland. The 1993 football co-captain represents the Maryland community service and academic success story. A member of Team Maryland, a group of student/athletes who go into the community to speak to school children as role models, Sturdivant won both Atlantic Coast Conference and College Football Association community service awards. He is one of the 1994 graduates who contributed to Maryland's inclusion as one of 20 schools on the CFA Honor Roll for having a graduation rate of over 70 percent.

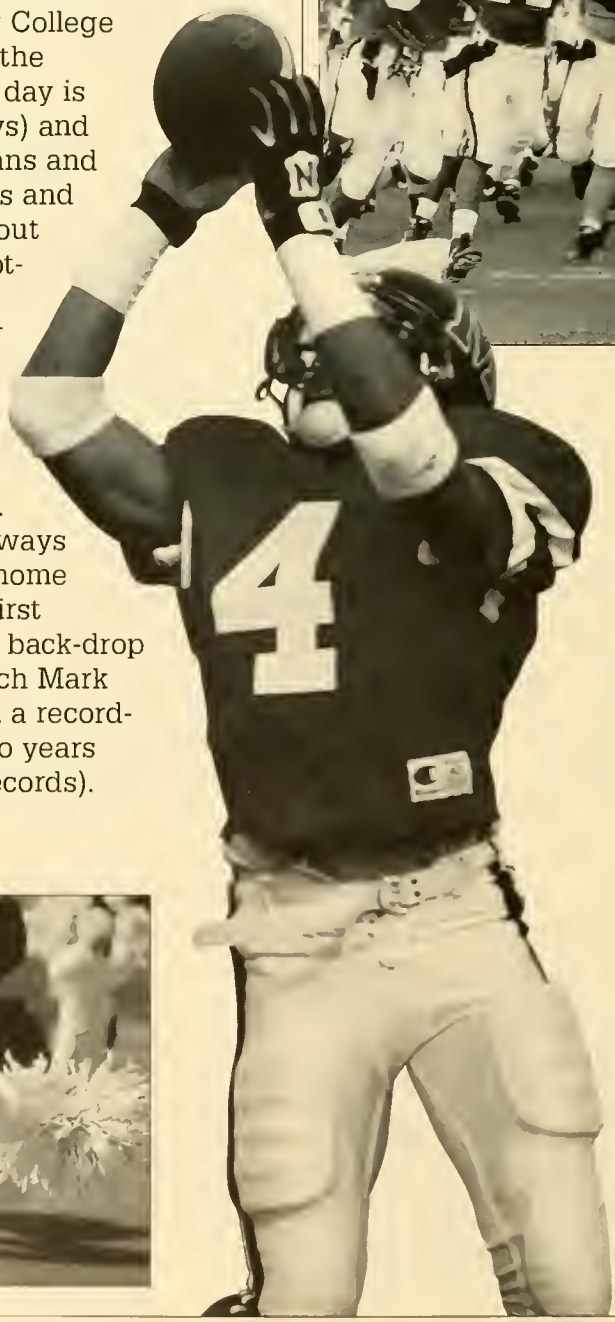
FOOTBALL IN THE PARK

Happy Campers in the Park

Some campers paint their faces red and white. Some stay up all night and cook so that no guest is hungry at game time. A few campers play their musical instruments while marching in uniform to the game. Campers with rhythm dance while tail-gating to Oldies; other campers dress-up like a Terrapin. Some play touch football just to get in the mood; others get in the mood by recalling what once was on previous game days.

The fans have come by the millions over 102 autumns, converting College Park into Football Park when the Terrapins are at home. Game day is about sunshine (almost always) and barbecues, families in mini-vans and alumni in recreational vehicles and pre-game parties. And it's about Atlantic Coast Conference football, which won its second national championship in four years in 1993, and about the best in opponents—Maryland according to USA Today played the nation's toughest schedule a year ago.

Byrd Stadium was nearly always full a year ago; back-to-back home games were sold out for the first time in a decade. Against the back-drop of Maryland vs. the best, Coach Mark Duffner's team again went on a record-setting offensive spree (In two years Maryland has set 53 school records).



FOOTBALL IN THE PARK

"I'm delighted and proud to be a part of football traditions that have grown over the decades in College Park. Not the least of which is the tradition of winning at Maryland. We've done the work to get better the past two years: We've set in motion a Red Storm of an offense and our recruiting programs have ranked among the nation's best. We've gone a long way towards attracting the kind of student/athlete into our program that will make us hard-working winners.

"The centerpiece of Football in the Park is Byrd Stadium, as handsome and functional a stadium as there is in the country. $20 million was spent in the first three years of the 90's to make Byrd Stadium the best.

"Maryland is putting its commitment front and center in making football a success. I'm committed to doing what it takes. To do less would not be in the Maryland tradition."

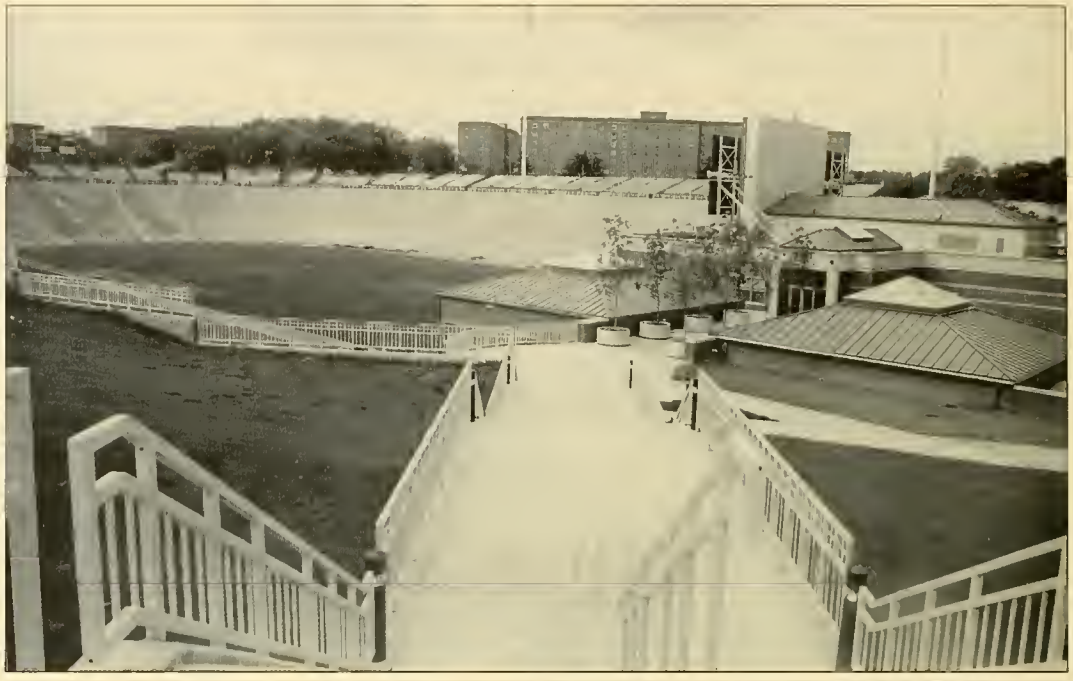
FOOTBALL IN THE PARK

Park Headquarters

Imaginative. Practical. Convenient. Well-equipped. Maryland lived-up to its commitment to house its football team in the finest facility possible. Between the 1991 and 1992 football seasons, the Terps' $7 million Football Team Complex was constructed in Byrd Stadium's east end. Construction of Park football headquarters completed Stage One of Byrd refurbishment; in all $20 million was spent since the fall of 1990 on installing new seating, rest rooms, concession stands, and a 90-foot high, 160-foot long press box, the Tyser Tower.



Imaginative.

The 46,000 square foot football complex, designed by H.O.K. Architects of Kansas City, (which also designed Orioles Park at Camden Yards), combines football function with imaginative design. Athletes make their conditioning home in the 7,000 square foot strength and conditioning area under skylights that reveal 35,000 pounds of work out machinery. Each player has a double locker—and a footlocker. On the second floor, every coach's office overlooks Byrd Stadium through oversized windows. A Terrapin Terrace surrounds the second floor offices for outdoor functions.

FOOTBALL IN THE PARK

Park Headquarters

Practical.

The layout of the ground floor allows easy access from strength and conditioning to oversized locker room to medical facilities to equipment areas. The locker rooms, which house a sauna and roomy shower facilities, are less than 100 feet away from all conference areas on the second floor. The nine conference areas are interconnecting, and feature state-of-the-art audio-visual equipment. Special snag-free carpeting was installed in the locker area which also features a player's lounge.

Convenient.

The Football Complex is within walking distance of dorms and dining areas, and is situated in the midst of campus life. Both the practice fields and Byrd Stadium's turf are immediately outside the locker room door, or near-by. The steps leading down to the Complex's front door face Cole Field House and the home of Maryland's large academic support unit.

Well-equipped.

Each phase of the Complex—from the 3,500 square foot medical and hydrotherapy rooms, to weight area to office suites—is state-of-the-art. A satellite dish links-up to a sophisticated audio-visual room.

The football stage is set for winning.

FOOTBALL IN THE PARK

Stadium in the Park

Born in 1950, Byrd Stadium is being reborn in the 1990s.

*Between November of 1991 and August of 1992, a Football Complex was constructed just beyond the East End Zone. Costing $7.0 million dollars, the Complex contains football offices, lockers, equipment and medical support areas, and a weight room. The new building's presence changes the atmosphere for games. Formerly the buildings that enclosed the open end of the horseshoe were well back from the playing area. They have been torn down, and the new building is just under 40 feet from the east end.

Just beyond that end line sits the new bronze Terrapin. Its installation was part of the celebration of the 100th year of football in 1992.

The concrete bowl, erected on the wetlands of an orchard, had decades of water damage repaired above and below its surface between October of 1990 and August of 1991. The 10 miles of redwood plank seats that held millions were replaced by environmentally less costly aluminum sheathed benches.

The old concession stands on the south side, a slice of stadium architecture sentimentally pleasing to those who remember their first visit to a football game, but prone to long lines on hot days, are now state-of-the-art palate pleasers. They are joined by new rest rooms and the stadium's first formal entranceway off of Field House Drive.

The Football Complex, Tyser Tower, concession stands, rest rooms, and stadium portals, designed by H-O-K Architects of Kansas City, are enclosed in sand-molded Calvert # 103 brick that matches the Williamsburg-style brick used on most of College Park's 335 buildings. The brick gives the contemporary architecture a timeless veneer, and unity with College Park's traditional Georgian look.

The Tyser Tower.

Sitting on the south rim of the stadium bowl is a new press box, The Tyser Tower, also constructed in the spring and summer of 1991. Containing five tiers, it is a 90 foot high, 160 foot long, mostly-enclosed structure. The total spent on the 1990-1991 construction was $13.2 million; $3.4 million was spent on Tyser Tower.

The first level contains entrances at opposite ends for two elevators that service the building. Sitting between these support areas are 300 exterior luxury seats. Occupants enjoy the electric air of the crowd, but inherit the benefits of heated seating and a roof to ward off inclement weather.

The second level contains the Hospitality Suite with theater-type seating, and a large hospitality and food preparation area. Both sides of the press box—facing the field and facing the campus—have glass walls allowing for a bright interior and spacious feeling. The weekly football press luncheon is held here.

The third level is the working press area, containing 200 seats for the working media, and an additional closed area seating 20 for statistical work. There is also a hospitality area with food preparation services.

The fourth level is a mix of television and radio booths, coaches booths, and rooms for game management and invited guests.

The fifth level is a photo deck that has on its exterior a representation of the ubiquitous Testudo looking down on the field of play.

from 1991 to 1993 is being followed this autumn by funding to complete new concession stands and rest rooms on the west and north ends of the stadium, and the double-decking of the stadium's North Stands.

Maryland's architectural athletic revival is funded by the Maryland Partnership, a matching-gift program between the state and friends of Maryland Athletics.

The Historic Byrd

Byrd Stadium has been home to national championship football and men's and women's lacrosse teams (the Terps won the Women's NCAA Lacrosse Championship in 1992), and to 56 Atlantic Coast Conference Track and Field team champions. It hosted the Queen of England at a football game in 1957, and was the stage where the greatest high hurdler in history, Renaldo Nehemiah, performed his wonders.

Last Spring, Byrd hosted the NCAA Women's Lacrosse Championship and the Men's NCAA Lacrosse Championship for a second straight year. The 1994 men's championships attracted over 60,000 fans and broke every attendance record, records which had been established in Byrd Stadium during 1989 and 1993 championships.

Many of the great moments in Maryland prep school history happened there, as well as the Special Olympics and the Maryland State Games. Byrd Stadium is a Maryland tradition for the high school football coaches of the state who regularly hold their coaching clinic at College Park.

The first Byrd Stadium, which sat along Route 1 where fraternity row is now, was opened in 1922. Seating 7,000, it served as Maryland's football home until 1950 when the second Byrd Stadium was built. Washington's Griffith Stadium was also home during that period.

The stadium is named after Dr. H.C. Byrd, who was a multi-sport athlete as an undergraduate, later the head football coach, and later still University President. His vision gave College Park preeminence among Eastern campus sports facilities for decades, and the impetus for the Terrapin's to win more Atlantic Coast Conference championships than any league school.

With on-going refurbishment, the stadium capacity is at 42,000. Starting this fall, all bleachers at the top of the stadium bowl will be removed, and the North Side will have an upper-deck. When this project is complete the seating will be 48,000.

When built 41 years ago, the stadium was thought to be in a "first phase" of construction. Plans called for the eventual seating of 92,000 and the double-decking of the entire stadium.

1920 The first Byrd Stadium was constructed along what is now U.S. 1 (Baltimore Boulevard). Raising the funds for construction was the football coach at the newly named University of Maryland, Curley Byrd. Byrd was coach under all three names the University was known as this century—Maryland Agricultural College, Maryland State College, and its present name. The stadium played host to most home football games, along with Baltimore Memorial Stadium and Griffith Stadium in the District, for three decades.

1950: Byrd Stadium, at the foot of the campus's North Hill was completed. A home field school record 43,836 fans witnessed a victory over traditional rival Navy in the opening game, September 30. The original capacity was 34,680. Putting temporary bleachers around the top rim of the stadium and in the end zone boosted the capacity to 50,000.

1952: Maryland had but three home games; the cost of season tickets ranged from $11.25 to $35.75.

1953: Byrd hosted the National Championship Team.

1957: Queen Elizabeth II visited for the North Carolina game, which marked the return of Jim Tatum to the scene of his coaching triumphs. The Royal Visit produced an upset 21-7 victory by Maryland. Coach Tommy Mont said later that this was his finest moment as coach.

1974: Bear Bryant returned to College Park with his Number Three ranked Alabama Crimson Tide on September 14. Temporary bleachers were installed for the second time in stadium history to accommodate 54,412, the largest crowd until that time at Byrd. Alabama won, 21-16. Later in the season on October 11, the second largest crowd (49,674) in Byrd history watched the Number 15 ranked Terps defeat Number 17 Ranked N.C. State, 20-10. The home team was inspired by film clips of Wolfpack taunting following 1973's encounter. Maryland averaged 37,995 fans per game, a record.

1975: On November 1, the attendance record was set at Byrd as Number 9 ranked Penn State defeated the Number 14 ranked Terps, 15-13. The crowd was 58,973. Maryland's average attendance was a record 42,359.

1983: The second largest crowd in Byrd Stadium, 54,715, witnessed the Number 17 ranked Terps lose to West Virginia, 31-21 on September 17.

1985: The Terps, who were ranked number one in the pre-season by Sport Magazine, set the all-time high attendance record, averaging 51,546 for six home game.

1990: Construction was begun following the last home football game of the season against Wake Forest (Oct. 13) on the first major athletic construction on campus in 35 years. The Byrd Stadium refurbishment is the first major construction done at Maryland College Park without the oversight of Curley Byrd.

1992: The Terrapin was placed in the east end zone, to be touched by all Terrapin competitors for good luck.

Park Experts

The reservoir of coaching expertise is deep. Of nine assistant coaches, seven were offensive or defensive coordinators before coming to College Park. Another was a successful head collegiate coach. Uniting the staff is Mark Duffner, who was a Division One defensive coordinator at 23 years of age. The record shattering of the Maryland record book is no accident. The Football Staff: (Front row) Inside linebackers coach Mel Foels, defensive line coach Cliff Schwenke, defensive coordinator Kevin Coyle, head coach Mark Duffner, offensive coordinator Dan Dorazio, quarterback coach Rob Spence, receivers coach Vincent White. (Second row) video coach Todd Hobin, football administrator R. D. Helt, outside linebackers coach Peter McCarty, graduate assistant Daryl Jones, running backs/special teams coach Dave Ungerer, tight ends coach/receiving coordinator Jim Miceli.

The strength of iron goes into these Terps

The physical preparation of a student/athlete to compete in football has developed into a critical component of the program. Emphasis is put into the field of strength and conditioning at the University of Maryland to enhance performance as well as prevent injuries. Strength coaches Dwight Galt, Mike Gerber and Evan Marcus employ a program that is geared towards maximizing athletic development. The Strength and Conditioning staff makes every attempt to accommodate the different training needs of each individual athlete.

The Maryland football team works on a structured weight training program for 47 weeks out of the year, with the five non-training weeks strategically placed to promote recovery. The goals of the weight program are not only to increase strength and prevent injuries, but also to develop explosive power. Explosive power is a critical ingredient in the sport of football.

The support of the weight coaches like Mike Gerber is constant—and up close.

Weight coach Evan Marcus provides encouragement.

The preparation of a student-athlete to compete in football goes beyond weight lifting. Speed improvement, plyometrics, agility and conditioning are areas of training that receive a great deal of attention. The Maryland Strength and Conditioning staff goes to great lengths to improve the speed of the Terps through reduction of mechanical inefficiencies, and the improvement of acceleration that is so vital in football.

The Terp football players are fortunate to train in one of the premier weight training facilities in the country. The Maryland Football Complex Weight Room features 7,200 square feet of space that holds advanced training equipment which caters to the specific needs of football. A main component in this facility is the free weight equipment, including ten mammoth power racks, Olympic platforms, and 11 tons of free weights. State-of-the-Art electrolyzed and plate loaded equipment further give the student/athlete the chance to better themselves.

Outstanding performance in the weight room is recognized twice a year with the awarding of the prestigious Iron Terp Award. Players who

Director Dwight Galt is on hand for conditioning counseling for all interested student/athletes.

Randy White changed the way defensive tackle is played

He was not a classic, bull-strong wall of granite, with mobility to match. He was no light-footed 235-pounder who used his quickness to defeat stronger players.

Randy White was a bull-strong, 6-4, 263 pound wall of granite who moved more quickly than any 235 pound lineman. He moved not only as fast as his physical gifts allowed, but his quickness was fueled, too, by the competitiveness of a bull mad at the world.

For his singular contributions to football, and for his ingenuity in changing the way a position is played, White enjoys a rare double in 1994: admission to the College Football Hall of Fame and to the NFL Pro Football Hall of Fame.

Park Paragons

No college program is producing more NFL quarterbacks

Scott Milanovich's assault on the Maryland and Atlantic Coast Conference record books a year ago is in a great tradition of Terrapin quarterbacks.

Six played in the NFL in 1993: Boomer Esiason, N.Y. Jets; Stan Gelbaugh, Seattle Seahawks; Neil O'Donnell, Pittsburgh Steelers; Frank Reich, Buffalo Bills; Mike Tice, Minnesota Vikings; and Scott Zolak, New England Patriots.

Although each has had moments of glory as professionals—Neil O'Donnell led the Steelers to the playoffs two straight years and Stan Gelbaugh was player of the year in the NFL sponsored World League of Football—Frank Reich and Boomer Esiason have garnered the most recent attention.

Reich is better at comebacks than any one in football history, college or professional. He led Maryland to the greatest comeback in collegiate history on November 10, 1984; on January 3, 1993, he led Buffalo to the greatest comeback in NFL history.

Nine years ago, Maryland was down, 31-0, at half-time to defending National Champion Miami. No one in football history had overcome so large a deficit. Maryland and Reich did. He completed 12 of 15 passes for 260 yards and three TDs in the second half, propelling the Terps to a 42-20 victory.

In 1993, Reich led the Bills to the greatest comeback in pro football history. Down 35-3 early in the second half, Reich threw for a career high 289 yards and four TDs.

Esiason's comeback last year was among the individual highlights of the NFL season. Traded to the New York Jets from the Cincinnati Bengals, the former AFC Player of the Year rejuvenated the Jets. But he will be most remembered for the crusade against Cystic Fibrosis he launched in the wake of his young son's diagnosis with the disease.

During the 1993 NFL season, Maryland had more QB alumni playing than any school.

Name	Pro Team	Terp Passing

Stan Gelbaugh	Seattle	3,611 yds. (1984-85)
Neil O'Donnell	Pittsburgh	4,989 yds. (1987-89)
Scott Zolak	New England	3,125 yds. (1989-90)

Park Animal Life

Tale of the Top Shell

Testudo is a Diamondback turtle. Like some other famous personages born into the Depression of the 1930s, the derivation of his name is cloudy. But it is likely that his moniker is derived from the scientific classification for turtle (testudines). Or the top turtle could be named after testudo gigantia, a species native to the African nation of Seychelles and one of its remote islands, Aldabra. Or the name could have come from a dictionary definition that says the word, testudo, was derived from the Latin and meant a shelter held over the head of Roman soldiers—like a tortoise shell. These explanations are a long way from the Chesapeake Bay where the Diamondback lives.

When Testudo had his coming out on May 23, 1933, he was thrown into a world filled with intimidating mascots—Wildcats, Tigers, Devils, Wolves, Bears—thought up over a half-century of intercollegiate competition. Maryland College Park was consolidated from different state schools in 1920 to form the base of today's wide-ranging state system, and the remodeled Maryland needed a flag carrier to do battle with Wahoos, Lions and Generals.

Dr. H.C. Byrd, a football coach who later became University President, recommended the Diamondback as mascot in 1932 in response to the student newspaper's search for an "official" leader. Byrd's childhood in Crisfield, Md., apparently included skirmishes with this brand of snapping turtle, indigenous to the Bay. The school paper was in fact already called The Diamondback, and when the Class of 1933 stepped forward with the idea of giving the University a permanent bronzed version as its graduation gift, Testudo's family was in to stay.

The furry Terrapin mascot has roamed the Byrd Stadium sideline for two decades.

Maryland had been referring to itself as Old Liners, yet another name whose derivation no one seems sure of. Historians are in a scrimmage over whether the nickname is a reference to a Revolutionary War Troop of Maryland soldiers who distinguished themselves on the field of battle, or they feel it could refer to a squabble with Pennsylvanians over just where the border between the two states should be.

The Class of '33 raised money for casting a Diamondback by holding its Senior Prom on campus to save money on expenses. And the yearbook and Student Government Association chipped-in. Edwin C. Mayo, Class of '04 and a former quarterback, donated at cost the 300 pound bronzed beauty as President of Gorham Manufacturing in Providence, RI. Robert J. Hill cast the inspired sculpture accomplished by company artist Aristide Cianfrani. Further turtleization came when the student yearbook, The Reveille, became The Terrapin in 1935. Newspapers, even then exploring every angle, shortened Terrapin to Terp for headline writing ease when it wasn't trying to cram Old Liner into a single column head. The name was in place; now came the stuff of legend.

The Stuff of Legend

The nicely thought out plans that made Testudo an instant hit did have a flaw. Putting Mr. T in front of the campus gym, Ritchie Coliseum, exposed Testudo to every road agent wearing enemy colors. Ritchie was right on U.S. Route 1, then the principal North-South highway along the Eastern Seaboard. When a less dignified opponent needed something extra against the turtle and his troops, they practiced emotional blackmail, and kidnapped him.

That was not the worst of it. They painted his golden skin enemy colors, and defaced his pedestal which was only to have the block M on it. Instead, opponents painted illegitimate JH's or GW's or V's or NC's on his nest. A riot took place when Johns Hopkins students kidnapped the handsome reptile in 1947; 200 police were called to the Baltimore campus to control the justified anger of College Park students. Two years later, the nifty shelled crusader was found on the lawn of a Virginia (The University) fraternity house, whose occupants smugly called President Byrd with the message to get Testudo off their lawn. Of course Byrd obliged, and soon after Testudo was hidden in the campus carpentry shop where he was less inspirational, but a whole lot safer.

The second stadium bearing Byrd's name was built in 1950, and in 1951 Testudo, sans coats of rivals' paint, took his perch in front of the Byrd Stadium football team house. He had beaten back all who would wrong him, and to make sure he would not travel again, he was fed 700 pounds of cement and had his body attached to a new pedestal by long steel rods.

With his permanent nesting came success for Maryland. Acting as guardian to waves of Terp competitors, the national football championship came, as did several ACC titles in the 1950s. His popularity among the students might have been the undoing of success, however. When McKeldin Library was constructed in the middle of campus, the student body demanded Testudo's full-time presence in the center of day-to-day activities. Testudo had gone far beyond being just a symbol for athletics. He was a campus symbol. Students carefully carried him up the hill to the main College Green and the library, and he was bolted to a new bed of stone in the early 1960s.

Coincidence or not, football did have a downturn in the 1960s with Testudo absent. In the 1970s,

All who pass by the Terrapin, and want good luck, touch the nose.

The Terrapin first overlooked the Byrd playing field in 1992.

when a costumed Testudo started to roam the sideline, success was returning. The furry Testudo reigned over unrivaled ACC football prowess, and sent Terps out to the four corners of the football world for bowls and intersectional clashes.

In 1992, a bronze twin to Testudo was created and installed just outside the new Football Complex locker room door. As the football team takes the field the team congregates around the bronze Terrapin, and then all touch his nose for good luck.

Joel Meisner Co. of Farmingdale, N.Y., created the twin. Two men spent two days in June of 1992 pouring a rubberized material over Testudo as it sat in front of McKeldin Library, followed by a wax mold on top. After a day to let the molds set, the wax was broken and easily removed. The rubber mold, which actually recreated Testudo, was painstakingly peeled away from the bronze and taken back to Meisner's factory where the twin was created using the Lost Wax method.

While Testudo was being recreated in front of McKeldin, the research library was undergoing extensive refurbishment. As part of the new interior and exterior McKeldin received, the beast guarding its front doors, the original Testudo, was given a new pedestal and his bronze coat was cleaned. The Class of '33, which created Testudo in the first place, used its 60th reunion to dedicate the rejuvenated campus symbol.

Fifty-nine years ago, the Diamondback Turtle Gorham used as a model for the shelled wonder had a ribbon attached to it at the dedication. The ribbon was tied to the canvas covering the statue. The Diamondback moved forward, and revealed the splendor of his larger, bronzed brother. But no one rushed the smaller Diamondback in his duties. All in attendance were true believers who knew what many unfaithful have discovered about Terrapins. They bite.

Park Colors, Flag

Mark Duffner's favorite color is red

Duffner is not the first coach at Maryland to take to red, deemed the University of Maryland's fight color through much of its history. Jim Tatum's teams, the most successful in school history, wore red, as did the teams of Jerry Claiborne and Bobby Ross, who also dominated in the ACC.

Maroon was the brand of red predominating Maryland's early football uniforms (1892-1910). Curley Byrd's long tenure as head coach (1911-1934) featured teams in black and gold. When Hall of Fame coach Clark Shaugnhessy came back east from Stanford in 1942, he brought with him Stanford's uniforms which were red and white. Except for a brief return to black and gold from 1943 to 1946, Shaugnhessy's color scheme has been the football fashion at Maryland.

The Terrapins are not at a loss for colors because red, white, black and gold are all featured in the state flag, and each is deemed an official school color. Before every football game alumnus Craig Dameron leads Maryland onto the field of play carrying the distinctive Maryland flag, just as he has for the past 19 years.

Right behind him comes Duffner, leading his charges. Look for him; he'll be dressed in red.

A colorful history

Maryland's flag bears the arms of the Calvert and Crossland families. Calvert was the family name of the Lords Baltimore, who founded Maryland, and their colors of gold and black appear in the first and fourth quarters of the flag. Crossland was the family of the mother of George Calvert, first Lord Baltimore. The red and white Crossland colors, with a Greek cross terminating in the foils, appears in the second and third quarters. The flag was first flown in its present form on October 25, 1888, at Gettysburg Battlefield for ceremonies dedicating monuments to Maryland regiments of the Army of the Potomac. It was officially adopted in 1904.

Dedication to a University Son

Dr. Jack Faber died in January. It was a cold and bitter ice storm that marked his memorial service. The weather told what kind of day it was for Maryland.

Jack Faber was chairman of the University's Microbiology Department, one of the great lacrosse coaches in collegiate history, twice Maryland head football coach, ACC Faculty Representative, athletic administrator, coach of numerous other sports at College Park, and successful mentor to hundreds of doctoral students, student athletes and coaches.

Jack Faber sat in the press box for every football game. Fortunately, we honored the man who gave the University seven decades of his life last November at the Duke Homecoming game.

We could not have honored him enough.

Welcome to Maryland

President William E. Kirwan

On behalf of the entire campus community, it gives me great pleasure to welcome you to the University of Maryland at College Park. This university enjoys a long and proud history of excellence in intercollegiate athletics. Under the leadership of Coach Duffner and his fine staff, this year's football season promises to be one of our most exciting.

Having played football as a student/athlete, I certainly appreciate the commitment necessary to participate and excel in a varsity sport. It is this sense of commitment to achievement and excellence that is characteristic of the young men and women who represent the University through its intercollegiate athletics program. We are extremely proud of these fine student/athletes.

Just as we take pride in our student/athletes, we believe that the University's many alumni and friends have reason to be proud of this institution. The tradition of excellence of our athletic programs is just one reason for pride. Our academic excellence is another. Indeed, the state's designation of the University as its flagship university results from our impressive academic accomplishments.

By every standard of measurement, the academic quality of College Park has grown dramatically over the past decade. We compare favorably with the nation's finest universities in, among other areas, the number of National Merit and National Achievement Scholars, the number of honors students, the distinguished records of graduates and the number of research grants, and the honors and prizes won by faculty.

We are indebted to you for the support that has made possible our athletic and academic achievements. We invite your continued partnership as College Park strives to set new standards of excellence both on the playing field and in the classroom.

"I like enthusiasm," he says. "I like people who show emotion. It helps me to get my point across. It helps reality—it helps me express me, and my opinion. I want everything (on the team) to be real, and not something that is phony, or that is just taking up time."

Mark Duffner charges through life. His teams play the way he lives every day: working hard, loving the game, and showing enthusiasm. Lots of enthusiasm.

Duffner's work ethic is real. Appointed December 31, 1991, his ability to get a lot into a working day led to accomplishing all the right things to spell v-i-c-t-o-r-y in the future. Things such as:

- acquiring outstanding recruiting classes in 1993 and 1994 that ranked in the nation's Top 25.
- showing the kind of offense that produced 50 school offensive records in two years.
- moving into Maryland's new $7 million Football Complex.
- attracting large crowds into a refurbished Byrd Stadium that will have over $30 million invested in its renewal.

Duffner inserted a new attitude with his arrival, one that said total commitment to team goals was paramount to Maryland's success. Through the 3-8 and 2-9 seasons Maryland recorded the past two years, Duffner's teams have played hard—just like their coach. Through the smiles and disappointments, certain truths about Duffner teams emerged:

- Duffner teams are always ready to play.
- Duffner teams gain yards. His Red Storm Offense, built around the Run and Shoot, gained over 10,000 yards in two years.
- Duffner does not play it safe. Successful turnarounds — in the face of extreme odds — are a strength.
  - In the last two games of the 1992 season, his team recorded the biggest back-to-back game turnaround in 100 years of Maryland football—from a 69-21 loss at Florida State to 53-23 victory over Clemson.
  - In a 1992 contest, his Terps went 87 yards in the last 13 seconds (with no time-outs) to win.
  - In 1993, Maryland recorded the most improbable comeback of all. Fielding a defense that had seven redshirt and true freshman starters, Maryland stopped Wake Forest at the Terrapin goal line, and went 99 yards in the last two minutes to score the game-tying TD with no time left on the clock. The winning PAT folllowed.
- Duffner recruits well. ("I love recruiting .... It's intriguing as the devil—I love to study people and the stories of their success, and non-success. It's like seeing a great movie all the time. The emotions, the feelings — you get the chance to experience them in a real life in recruiting.")
- Duffner loves to coach—It's his life calling. ("I would have a difficult time, without coaching, to touch so many people, and to make things special.") Conducting a sports medicine clinic for Washington's Children's Hospital, or as co-coach of the Gray in the Blue-Gray game in 1992, he energizes every proceeding with missionary zeal — and high five's.
- Duffner likes to have fun. While playing high school ball, he made his pocket money by being the drummer in a rock'n roll band — and vocalist. He still plays the drums, when he's not doing magic tricks for his team, or in a skit involving the next opponent's mascot.

The promise of tomorrow is based a lot on what Duffner, 41, has accomplished as a head coach. He came to College Park as college football's winningest coach — at Holy Cross his record was 60-5-1 in six years. There, too, he battled the odds to succeed — assistant coach Duffner took over as head coach on a dreary February day in 1986, just after tragedy had claimed the head coach's life. The Crusader's were 4-6 the previous year, but Duffner, in typical fashion, never flagged from going full tilt in the face of adversity. Holy Cross went 10-1, and in each of the next five seasons, his teams excelled. Marks of 11-0, 9-2, 10-1, 9-1-1, and 11-0 followed. He was selected coach of the year on 17 occasions, and was twice named national I-AA Coach of the Year.

Duffner's home town of Annandale, Va., is no more than 25 miles from College Park; the route he took to the Maryland campus was through some of the best football had to offer. No overnight success story despite becoming a head coach at 32, Duffner at 23 years of age was defensive coordinator at the University of Cincinnati (1977-1980). He coached under Woody Hayes at Ohio State as a graduate assistant (1975-1976), was recruited to play at William & Mary by Bobby Ross, and played there for Coach Lou Holtz. At William & Mary, he was Southern Conference All-Academic. His Annandale High School coach, might have influenced him most of all. Duffner credits him with starting him on the road to coaching.

Mark and his wife Kathy have three children: Christina Marie, Carolyn Elizabeth, and John David.

Energy for People

(An interview with Mark Duffner)

How do you maintain a personal interest in individual players?
By interest and involvement. I think it's important that the players understand that the head coach and the coaching staff are interested in them as people. We're going to ask them to try to be the best they can be as people – in their social life, academic life and athletic life. They are going to get the same kind of commitment we're asking of them back from the coaching staff.

Everyone makes mistakes once in a while, but we want the effort to be there. There are really three key things: There is going to be real trust in our program. We want to develop honest relationships between coaches and players. Secondly, there is going to be genuine care – again we talk about their total character and lending a helping hand. Third is following-up on the commitment to make the student-athletes achieve their goals. Trying and effort are what we're all about.

How do you see your efforts – the record-breaking, the recruiting success, the endless hours of preparation – paying off?
This team is becoming closer. It takes time to improve, but there is starting to be a proper dependency on one another within the program. Whether I see it in the off-season weight program; whether I see it in the academic classroom; whether I see it on the practice field, or involvement in different special team events, be it bowling or a spring softball game. We're trying to create a climate where the players truly like being around one another. Not just for the goal of winning football games, but that they really enjoy each other. We spend a lot of time working together; we'd also want them to spend a lot of time having fun together. This is something that takes time, and a daily touch, if you will. As we continue to improve and develop, successful relationships will be a big part of the success.

When did you determine a family atmosphere was so important in building a football program?
I sensed way back when I was playing that for an athlete in any team sport to be successful everybody has to contribute, and to care about one another. There couldn't be a selfish attitude because that detracted from the effort. So as a player in athletics I know that when we had our best teams people were committed to one another and to the goal of the team. Our best teams were those that were very, very close knit, and cared about one another. I was fortunate to be on some teams that were that way, and I always thought that if I had the chance to develop a program, that would be the foundation of it.

How do you get so much into a day (A Duffner day is somewhere beyond 24 hours)?
I just think that if you enjoy what you do, you can do a lot. I love dealing with people, and this is a great people job – I've just got energy for people. I couldn't stand being alone. So getting it done is trying to be as organized as you can be, and the Good Lord gave me an energy that has a good pace. We just try to get it all done.

"It is very enjoyable for me to see them enjoy success, to become confident people ... to let it fly in terms of playing as hard as they can."

Beyond the results on the scoreboard, what is the most rewarding athletic experience for you?
To see our players play hard, and to utilize their abilities to the fullest. When you see kids improve, when you see them know they have had success on individual plays, or that they know they have worked hard and are able to make big plays – again utilizing their potential to its highest as athletes. It is very enjoyable for me to see them enjoy success, to become confident people, to become aggressive with confidence – I don't mean aggressive in terms of hurting people, but being able to let it fly in terms of playing as hard as they can.

"I love to study people and the stories of their success ... It's like seeing a great movie all the time. The emotions, the feelings – you get a chance to experience them in real life in recruiting."

Do you like recruiting?
I love recruiting. It's a people filled job – you get a chance to meet families, coaches, administrators, and student-athletes. Our mission is to make our own family the best. This is a chance for us, in a manner of speaking, to adopt, to adopt the best to make our family better. You learn so much trying to find out about people, what makes this person special, why we should be recruiting this person. To see all the contributing factors that allowed this person to achieve in the classroom and as a player. It's as intriguing as the devil – I love to study people and the stories of their success, and non-success. It's like seeing a great movie all the time. The emotions, the feelings – you get a chance to experience them in real life in recruiting.

On his 1994 team

"Steve Ingram is one of the very best offensive linemen in the country, if not the best."

It's unusual to have the offensive line being billed the star of the team. How does it rate such attention?
Our offensive line is the number one strength of our football team. I' m impressed with the work ethic of the group, and the goals of the group. They want to be the best in country. This is a goal they've established for themselves.

They work hard to back-up that ambition. Steve Ingram is one of the very best offensive linemen in the country, if not the best. We're very anxious to see him have his best season ever. Dave Hack has done an excellent job in giving effort and example. Jamie Bragg is a captain, and it's very important to him that this team reach its potential. He is an explosive athlete. Jade Dubis shies away from any recognition, but he gives it everything, every day. I just love how he answers the call day after day. John Teeter has shown tremendous improvement in the off-season. He is a 400 pound 'bencher' now. These five guys will be leaned on heavily

"I give credit to Scott for his preparation and execution ... people knew we would throw the football based on the time on the clock and the score. Yet he was able to move the ball."

Quarterback is a focus of pre-season publicity for Maryland. How do you view the position?
We saw last season how Scott Milanovich can be a highly successful quarterback. I give great credit to Scott for his preparation and execution, especially when people knew we would throw the football based on the time on the clock and the score. Yet he was able to move the ball. I also feel Kevin Foley can be an efficient quarterback. Both Scott and Kevin made decisions that led to big plays. They both picked-up that efficiency from last season during the course of spring practice. Kevin for the first part of spring, until he was injured, displayed a great deal of poise, and was very positive in his decision making. I'm very confident of what Kevin can do. Brian Cummings took all the second team snaps (Milanovich did not participate in the first two weeks of drills, Foley was hurt for the last half of practice) and again showed the ability to make big plays. I'm very confident in our quarterbacks.

"Jermaine Lewis is a touchdown waiting to happen."

Jermaine Lewis was as good as any receiver in the country before being hurt last year. What makes him so dangerous?
Jermaine Lewis is a big play waiting to happen–based on his explosiveness and speed. I also like the fact that he is anxious to do the best he can. He is not just a very high potential person, he gets it done. He also has desire–He's a football player. He makes the catches, he blocks, he has demonstrated toughness. The receiving corps in general is a strength of our team. Russ Weaver is a kind of wise old man. He just makes plays. There is a lot of talent in what is a young group.

Who is your most dangerous player?
Probably Jermaine Lewis. I think that Allen Williams is certainly a dangerous player. He has breakaway-type speed, the power needed to generate tough yards, but I think Jermaine is our most dangerous–He's a touchdown waiting to happen.

Defensively, youth is the Maryland hope? How is that youth keyed by Linebacker Ratcliff Thomas?
There is a real desire on our football team for our defense to improve, and not just because of statistics. There is a real effort going on, and we have to sustain it going into the 1994 season.

Ratcliff Thomas is a part of that desire–he has the quickness and balance to make big plays. We're always looking for ways to make us better no matter how young we are–Wade Inge, Jermaine Lewis and Andrew Carter were all moved from receiver to the secondary in spring practice, and that seems to have been a productive look.

These are young players–the defense is young. Part of getting better will be for the young players to be tougher, not to go into our Testudo shells. That attitude of toughness is being developed as best and as fast as we can implement it.

Kevin Coyle

Defensive Coordinator
Defensive Backs

In his first season as Defensive Coordinator for the Terps, Kevin Coyle is a new face to Maryland, but not to Mark Duffner. Coyle comes to College Park after three successful years at Syracuse. Prior to his days with the Orangemen, Coyle coached alongside Duffner for nine seasons at Holy Cross, leading the Crusaders into the national spotlight.

Coyle coached the inside linebackers and the secondary at Syracuse. In 1992, Syracuse led the nation with 24 interceptions and allowed only 1007 yards rushing to set a school record for an 11 game schedule. The Orangemen led the Big East in rushing defense for two years, finishing 11th nationally in 1991 and 5th in 1992 under Coyle.

A member of the Holy Cross staff from 1982-90, Coyle started as outside linebacker coach and also coached the defensive ends before being promoted to defensive coordinator in 1986. In his five years as coordinator, the Holy Cross defense ranked in the top 10 nationally in Division I-AA scoring defense on four occasions. The Crusaders led the nation in 1987, finished fifth in 1986, ninth in 1982 and second in 1990. The '86 and '87 teams also finished among the top 10 nationally in rushing defense and total defense. Five Crusaders earned All-America honors under Coyle's tutelage, including all-time Division I-AA interception leader Dave Murphy.

The Staten Island, NY native played football and wrestled at Monsignor Farrell H.S. He then attended the University of Massachusetts, where he played defensive back for Dick MacPherson, currently the head coach of the New England Patriots. Coyle was an assistant coach at his high school before starting his college coaching career with the University of Cincinnati as a graduate assistant in 1978. After one year stints at Arkansas (part-time assistant under Lou Holtz) and the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy (defensive coordinator, secondary, strength coach), he joined the Holy Cross staff, serving with Mark Duffner.

Coyle received his bachelor's degree in Physical Education from Massachusetts in 1978 and his masters degree in education from Cincinnati in 1979.

He and his wife, Louise, have a one-year old daughter, Jenlain Alexandra.

Dan Dorazio

Offensive Coordinator
Offensive Line

Dan Dorazio has shown his complete dedication to Maryland football and head coach Mark Duffner. To watch him work, is just utter amazement. It isn't a surprise to see Maryland's offense continue to shatter milestones every season.

With Dorazio calling the offensive plays last year, the Terps Run-and-Shoot offense set 15 school records and tied five more. In two years with Dorazio and Duffner, the Terps have smashed the record books, making 46 new school marks.

Dorazio's entire offensive line returns this season including every back-up player. One of Maryland's premiere players in 1994, tackle Steve Ingram, is a three-year starter for the Terps. He and center Jamie Bragg, who made every snap last season, are the team's co-captains.

Incredibly, it was the third consecutive year that Dorazio had orchestrated an offense to more than 4,800 total yards. Nationally, the Terps finished third in passing offense and 17th in total offense.

Prior to his coming to College Park, Dorazio was an assistant under Duffner for three years at Holy Cross. In his first year as offensive coordinator at Holy Cross in 1991, the Crusaders averaged 467.1 total yards per game, 33.8 points per game and had a perfect 11-0 record

In addition to his duties as offensive coordinator, Dorazio is one of the most respected developers of offensive linemen in the country. He coached that position at several schools, including the University of Washington, where he oversaw the progress of All-America Mike Zandofsky. At Holy Cross, Dorazio's linemen routinely dominated the All-Patriot League listings.

Prior to joining Mark Duffner's Holy Cross staff, Dorazio was at Washington for five years, during which time he coached teams in four Bowl games. Dorazio also has some previous experience in the Atlantic Coast Conference, having coached at Georgia Tech from 1982-83. He got his coaching start at Kent State, his alma mater, where he began coaching as an undergraduate after playing football for the Golden Flashes for two years.

A native of Stow, Ohio, Dorazio graduated from Kent State in 1974 with a degree in Education. He has done significant post-graduate work toward a masters degree in sports administration. Dorazio has a son, Daniel, 14, and a daughter, Marisa, 12.

Specifics: 42 (1-22-52)

Education: B.S. in education, Kent State, 1974

Dan Dorazio is surrounded by daughter Marisa and son Danny.

Mel Foels

Assistant Coach
Inside Linebackers

In 25 years of college coaching, Mel Foels has established a reputation for developing outstanding defensive units with few star players.

Certainly, Foels has tutored his share of great players. While an assistant at North Carolina, he directed the college career of Lawrence Taylor, probably the greatest linebacker in ACC history.

But Taylor was the exception, not the rule. More often, Foels has taken hardworking, over-achieving players and developed their talents within a team concept.

Certainly that will be Foels' charge this season as he begins his third year with the inside linebackers in Maryland's defensive alignment.

Foels was the master mind behind the development of sophomore Ratcliff Thomas, who not only led the Maryland defense in tackles last season, but was the first true freshman in recent history to lead an ACC team in tackles. Along with Thomas, Foels used a number of other underclassmen, all of whom return this season.

Foels lists many of the country's historical football powers on his impressive professional resume. At Arizona State, where he coached in 1990 and 1991, he guided the Pac-10's second-leading defense in 1991. From 1984-89, he coached outside linebackers at Tennessee, and before that he was the linebackers coach at North Carolina, where Taylor was his star pupil. In Foels' four years at UNC, the Tar Heels compiled a 37-11 record and won four consecutive bowl games.

A native of Toledo, Ohio, Foels graduated from Bowling Green in 1965 and received his masters degree from the school in 1966. He played guard and linebacker for the Falcons from 1961-64.

Foels began his coaching career as an assistant at Iowa Wesleyan College in 1966. He took over the head coaching position the next year and guided IWC to four Prairie Conference titles. He was the league Coach of the Year three times.

Foels and his wife, Dawn, have two daughters, Tracie, 24, and Shellie, 22.

Specifics: 51 (8-3-43)

Education: B.S. in biology and physical education, Bowling Green State, 1965; M.S. in education, Bowling Green State, 1966

Peter McCarty

Assistant Coach
Outside Linebackers

In his third season coaching the outside linebackers is Peter McCarty.

One of five imports from Mark Duffner's final Holy Cross staff, McCarty seems to revel in a state of constant motion. His energy certainly was evident during the first two seasons of the Duffner era McCarty's corps of linebackers were among the most active of any unit on defense.

In 1993, McCarty rotated four players who had not played a down of football. Even though they were without experience, every play was executed with 100 percent effort. That is the type of effort that McCarty demands from his players and himself

McCarty has always been a tireless worker. At Holy Cross, he held three distinct positions. Coaching the Crusader defensive ends, acting as the professional scout liaison and serving as the team's academic coordinator. On the field, he oversaw the development of a group of ends that included Tom Smith, a 1988 All-America and the Crusader single-season sack co-record holder with 16. In fact, in his last two years at HC, McCarty's defensive ends combined to register 38 sacks.

A Bangor, Me. native, McCarty was an All-East, All-New England and All-Yankee Conference linebacker at Massachusetts. He was the 1977 UMass co-captain for a team that advanced to the NCAA Division 1-AA playoffs.

After graduating from Massachusetts in 1978, he returned to his hometown to coach and teach special education at Bangor High School. He then moved to Maine Central Institute in nearby Pittsfield, Me.

In 1981, McCarty joined the staff at Syracuse as a graduate assistant. While earning his master's degree in physical education, McCarty was a defensive coach and chief scout for the Orangemen. From Syracuse, McCarty went to American International College, where he served a defensive coordinator from 1983 to 1986, when he joined Duffner's Holy Cross staff

McCarty, 38, is single.

Jim Miceli

Assistant Coach
Tight Ends
Recruiting Coordinator

After spending his first season at College Park as the recruiting coordinator, Jim Miceli will take on additional duties this season as tight ends coach.

Miceli has recorded a long history of success in Eastern football on the collegiate and prep levels.

Prior to his arrival at Maryland, Miceli was the tight end coach and academic advisor at the University of Pittsburgh. He also spent a short period at the University of Wisconsin as their recruiting coordinator.

A 1979, Southern Connecticut graduate, Miceli began his college coaching career as a graduate assistant at Pittsburgh. He held various positions at the high school level including head coach at Norwalk (CT) High and Old Tappan (NJ) High. Both schools enjoyed championship success during his tenure.

In 1983, Miceli moved to Ramapo (NJ) College where in four years he recorded a 31-9 record as head coach and earned the Roadrunners E.C.A.C. post-season honors. He was selected Coach of the Year in the New Jersey Athletic Conference in 1989.

A native of Rye, NY, Miceli was an all-league offensive lineman on the prep level before enrolling at Southern Connecticut where he lettered twice.

He and his wife, Mariann, have two daughters, Victoria and Alexandria.

Cliff Schwenke

Assistant Coach
Defensive Line

Upon accepting the head coaching position at Maryland, Mark Duffner, known as one of the country's most innovative offensive coaches, first laid the ground work for a successful Terrapin defense.

In selecting numerous members of his Holy Cross staff to join him in College Park, Duffner made sure that defensive line coach Cliff Schwenke made the move south. After all, Schwenke, as interior defensive line coach for the Crusaders, oversaw a unit that led the Patriot League in rushing defense, scoring defense and total defense for five consecutive seasons.

Those Holy Cross lines featured some of the biggest, strongest, fastest linemen in the Patriot League. Based on Maryland's recruiting, Schwenke may be coaching one of the biggest defensive lines in the ACC before too long.

As defensive line coach at Holy Cross, Schwenke helped develop a unit that produced two All-Americans in middle guard Steve Southard (second team, 1986) and tackle Andy Martin (third team, 1987) along with several All-Patriot League performers. He also doubled as the HC recruiting coordinator. In that position, he oversaw the recruitment of six seasons worth of student athletes that helped the Crusaders to a 60-5-1 overall won-loss record.

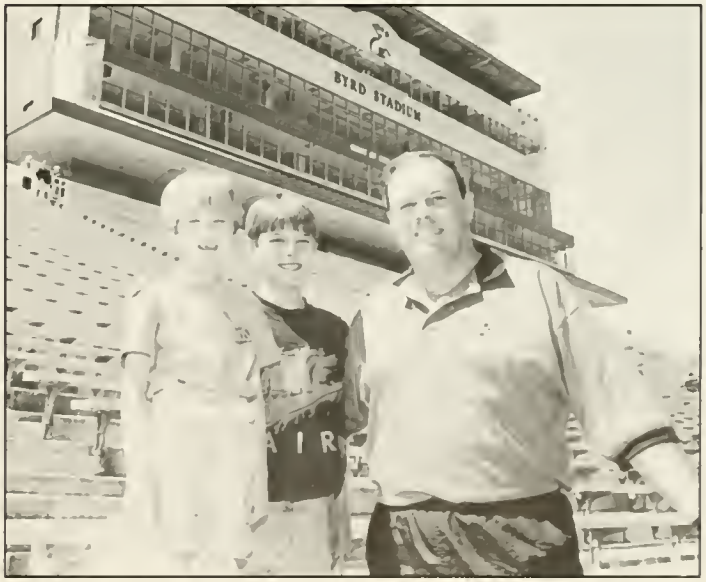
Prior to his second stint at Holy Cross beginning in 1986, he coached there from 1978-81. Schwenke served in various coaching capacities at Brigham Young, William & Mary, Worcester Polytechnic Institute, Columbia and Boston College.

A 1973 graduate of the University of Bridgeport, Schwenke was an All-East linebacker and captain of the UB team that went 11-0 and won the 1972 Knute Rockne Bowl. A native of Amsterdam, N.Y., Schwenke has two children: David, 12, and Anne, 5.

Specifics: 43 (6-21-51)

Education: B.S. in physical education, University of Bridgeport, 1972.

Coaching: Graduate Assistant, Albany State, 1975; Part-time Assistant, Brigham Young University, 1976; Part-time Assistant, Boston College, 1977, Defensive Assistant and Head Freshman Coach, Columbia University, 1978; Defensive Line Coach and Recruiting Coordinator, College of the Holy Cross, 1979-80; Defensive Line Coach, William & Mary, 1981; Part-time Assistant, College of the Holy Cross, 1983-84, Offensive Coordinator, Worcester Polytechnic Institute, 1985; Defensive Line Coach, Recruiting Coordinator, Holy Cross College, 1986-91, Defensive Line Coach, University of Maryland, presently



Cliff Schwenke with daughter Annie and son David.

Rob Spence

Assistant Coach
Quarterbacks

In his third year at Maryland, Rob Spence takes over the quarterback duties after spending the first two seasons overseeing the highly productive receiving unit.

In 1993, Spence directed a young group of men including slot receiver Russ Weaver, who led the ACC in receptions with 6.3 a game.

Taking over the reigns of quarterbacks this season will be a rather easy transition for Spence. One of the five coaches to make the move with Mark Duffner to Maryland, Spence spent his last season at HC guiding record-setting quarterback Tom Ciacco, the MVP of the Patriot League. As quarterback coach, Spence molded the trigger men for the Crusaders, the only unbeaten team in I-AA in 1991. Holy Cross finished fourth in the country in total offense (467 yards per game) and ninth in passing offense (292 yards per game) under Spence's guidance.

Before going to Holy Cross in 1991, Spence was the offensive coordinator and receiver's coach at Hofstra University, where he kept the Flying Dutchmen in flight. Hofstra led Division III in points (472), passing (343.2 yards per game) and total offense (505.7 yards per game) and set the Division III record for scoring margin at 38.2 points a game.

Prior to Hofstra, Spence was the Offensive Coordinator at his alma mater, Iona College. Under Spence, the Gaels set six school records and the 2,537 passing yards ranked 11th nationally.

A 1981 graduate of Iona College, Spence played tight end for the Gaels. He began is coaching career at Iona Prep, where he was offensive coordinator from 1982-84, before being named head coach. He spent five years as head coach, compiling 29-19-1 record, before moving on to become offensive coordinator at his alma mater in 1989.

Spence, 36, and his wife, Susan, have a two-year old daughter, Samantha and a newborn girl, Sydney Rae, born on May 15.

Dave Ungerer

Assistant Coach
Running Backs
Special Teams
Coordinator

After spending the first two seasons as the Strength and Conditioning coach for the University's 23 intercollegiate sports, Dave Ungerer was appointed Running Back coach and Special Team Coordinator last winter

Ungerer's experience as one of the top strength specialists in the country has made Maryland athletes rise above the rest. In his first spring at College park, several school record performances were set during the weight testing period. The very next season, those records were re-broken. Ungerer's enthusiasm and ability to motivate in the weight room is legendary.

Ungerer joined the Terps from Holy Cross, where in four years he was part of a staff that led the Crusaders to the winningest record in college football. Becoming the first full-time strength coach at Holy Cross, Ungerer implemented a stringent off-season work-out program as well as a program designed to keep the Crusaders at peak performance throughout the season.

In 1986-87, Ungerer was the defensive line and strength coach at Davidson College while also serving as the professional scout liaison. During the 1985 season, he was the defensive line coach at Northeastern University

Ungerer played running back and linebacker at Edison (NJ) High School, rushing for more than 1,000 yards and earning All-Area honors. He then earned three letters at Southern Connecticut State University, receiving a B.S. in Physical Education in 1980.

Matriculating to Maryland from Southern Methodist University, White had four receivers with more than 30 catches in 1993. Prior to SMU, White was the offensive coordinator at Pacific, Tennessee-Martin and Oregon Tech. At Pacific, White directed his offensive unit with precision. The 1992 squad was 23rd nationally in total offense (406.3) and 12th in the nation in passing offense (271.3).

In 1991, the Tigers were second nationally in total offense and third in passing offense, accumulating an amazing 342 yards per game.

He began his coaching career as a graduate assistant at his alma mater, Stanford.

A 1984 graduate of Stanford and a standout collegian, White led the nation in receptions in 1982 and earned all-PAC 10 honors. He was a sixth round draft choice of the New York Jets. He excelled in the Arena Football League in 1987 for the Denver Dynamite. He led the league in virtually every offensive category.

Todd Hobin

Video Coordinator

Beginning his third year as the football staff's video coordinator, Todd Hobin oversees an area that encompasses the latest in technical innovation.

Inside the Terps' new football team building is a state-of-the-art video editing lab that also doubles as Hobin's office. With computerized editing equipment, Hobin can break down game and practice video in any number of ways. If a coach wants a tape of just "third-and-long plays, Hobin can dub it quickly. If the defensive coaches want to only watch plays where their defense was set in a particular formation, he creates that tape immediately.

This creative editing is available because Hobin and his staff work tirelessly during games and practices chronicling every situation. Every play that is video taped is coded by computer so that the special tapes can be edited after each game.

Hobin knows what he is doing on both sides of the camera. While he handles only video responsibilities at Maryland, he has extensive experience as a football coach. He was for three years on the football staff at Cornell University, helping the Big Red to the 1990 Ivy League Championship. He helped coach the quarterbacks and running backs on that team and served as the freshmen team's offensive coordinator.

Prior to coaching at Cornell, he was for two years on the staff at Ithaca as an assistant defensive back coach and defensive coordinator for the junior varsity. Ithaca won the 1988 Division III National Championship with Hobin on the staff.

A native of Holland Patent, NY, Hobin graduated cum laude from Cortland State. He was a three-year letterwinner at running back and punter for the Red Dragons. He also attended Hamilton College for one year, where he was the team's starting free safety.

Hobin and his wife, Candice, have an infant son, Bryce.

Todd and Candice Hobin with son Bryce.

R.D. Helt

Assistant to the Athletic Director/ Football Operations

R.D. Helt begins his first year with the Maryland football program, joining the Terrapins after being the recruiting coordinator at Kansas for the past six years.

Under Helt's supervision, the Jayhawks had highly rated recruiting classes the past five years according to national recruiting analysts.

As administrative assistant, he will oversee a variety of duties, including organizing all team travel, serving as the football staff coordinator between the University's academic community and the student-athletes, and administering all special events hosted by the football staff, including clinics and summer camps and the summer job program.

Helt may have one of the most difficult jobs on the entire University of Maryland campus – keeping Duffner, who constantly tries to cram 48 hours of activity into a 24-hour day, on schedule.

Helt played football at Washburn (Kansas), where he started as a freshman and sophomore at defensive back. Helt then transferred to Missouri Western where he started his final two years. While at Missouri Western, he was awarded the Chris Faros Scholarship recognizing leadership on and off the field. He graduated with a degree in business and earned the Wall Street Journal Graduate Award, recognizing the school's top business student.

Helt earned a master's degree in Sports Administration from Ohio State in 1987 where he served as an Administrative Assistant for marketing in the athletic department.

R.D. and his wife Nikki have a one-year old son, Christopher Michael.

Unique ACC Notes

Maryland and Florida State are the only two league teams to win their final two games the past two seasons.

At Maryland: Coach Duffner considers Ingram the team's best player whose dominating play and talent should earn him national post-season honors ... He is the first Terrapin offensive tackle to qualify for national post-season selection since 1985 ... For his outstanding play as a starting lineman for three years, and because he is considered one of the nations' best offensive tackles in the country, Ingram has been picked on several pre-season All-America teams by national publications ... He was a third team pick as the ACCSWA selectors chose those playing in post-season games ... Encouraged by many to enter the NFL supplemental draft last spring, he declined ... He made it emphatic that he wanted to play his senior year for Duffner and with the veteran and experienced line, most of whom will be playing together for the third straight year ... The three-year starter has anchored this line the past two years that allowed for over 10,000 yards in Total Offense ... The top individual highlight of the 1907 team was a 90-yard touchdown run by H.C. Byrd (holding football) against Gallaudet.

Curley Byrd sent the troops to New Haven and its gigantic bowl; when the team returned they had defeated Yale and went on to beat Hopkins at season's end. The latter victory made any year worthwhile.

Terp Hall of Fame

The Athletic Hall of Fame was founded in 1982 by the M Club Foundation as a joint project of the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics and the M Club. The first committee was organized by then Athletic Director Dick Dull and consisted of outstanding Terrapin athletes and coaches Jack Faber (Class of 1926), Tom Fields (Class of 1942), Al Heagy (Class of 1930), Jim Kehoe (Class of 1940) and Jack Scarbath (Class of 1952). Arthur L. Kramer (Class of 1942), a letterwinner in tennis, was particularly important in the founding of the Hall of Fame.

Among the qualifications for nominees are being out of school at least 10 years, having earned a minimum of one varsity letter, and if not an undergraduate athlete, being a Department of Intercollegiate Athletics staff member for at least 15 years. Nominees will be judged on personal conduct in life and their contributions to the high ideals of intercollegiate athletics.

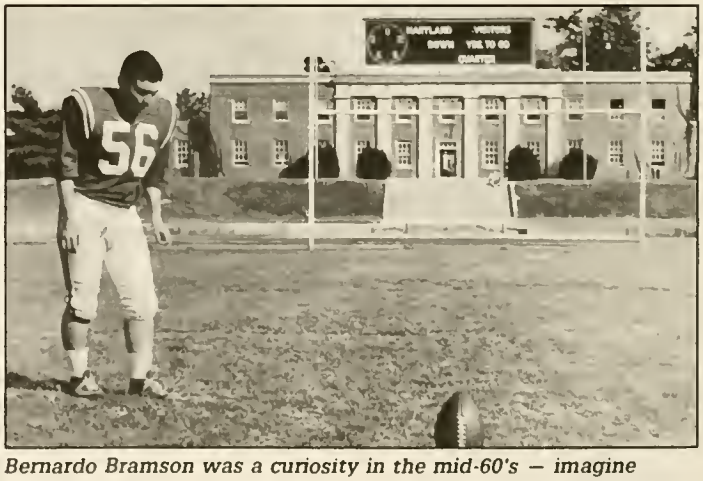
Mark Mason in the end quietly led the Terrapins in rushing the last three years — despite injury.



Bernardo Bramson was a curiosity in the mid-60's — imagine someone kicking a football from the side, like a soccer ball! He led the Terp's in scoring. When was the last time the Terps didn't have a soccer-style kicker.

Tom Brown was very good at whatever he did. He led Maryland during his career in punt and kickoff returns and interceptions, and played baseball and basketball. He roamed the safety position for the legendary Vince Lombardi-drilled Green Bay Packers in the 1960s, but he could have just as easily made it in major league baseball.

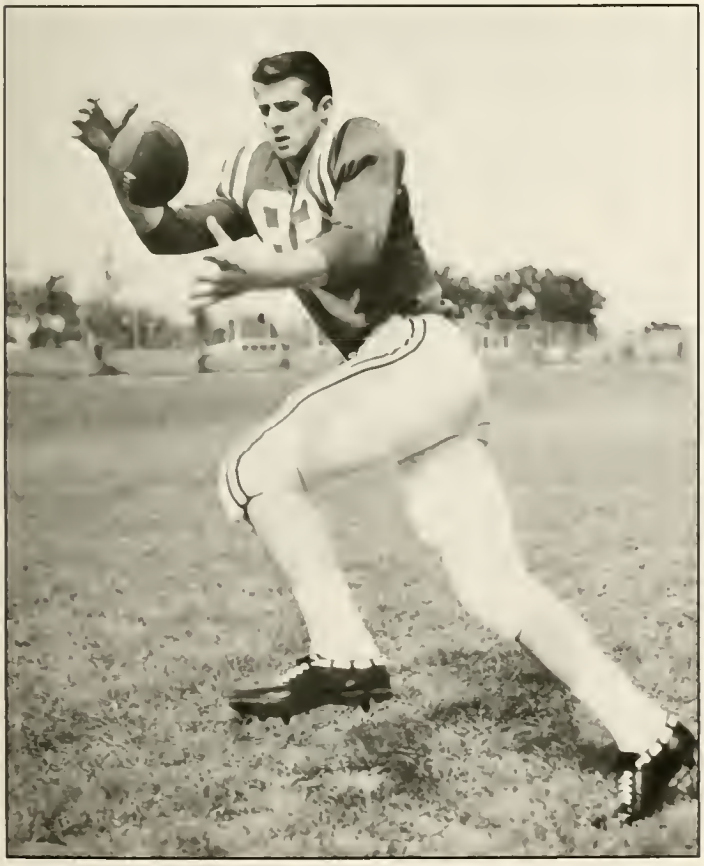
Coach Jim Tatum tutored Lynn Beightol.

Scott Zolak: led the Terps to the 1990 Independence Bowl on his way to joining Maryland's long list of NFL quarterbacks as he was selected in 1991 by the New England Patriots.

Lou Weidensaul caught Jack Scarbath's passes often enough to lead the 1951 Terrapins in receiving.



Gary Collins: receiver or kicker, no matter the pose, he was consensus All-America.

Stan Jones

National Football League Hall of Fame

Stan Jones was the starting right tackle on the Terps defense that allowed only 31 points during 10 regular season games in 1953. With Jones leading the way, Maryland recorded six shutouts, and allowed only one team, Georgia, to score more than six points. He earned All-American honors that season and was chosen the "Outstanding College Lineman of 1953" by the College Football Coaching Board.

Following his All-American career as a Terp, he served 13 years in the National Football League. He played for the Chicago Bears for 12 seasons and finished his career as a Washington Redskin.

"I was very prepared for the NFL when I left Maryland," Jones said. "From my coaches who taught me football to my professors who taught me astronomy, physiology, and weight training, I received a great education. I couldn't have picked a better place to go - they picked me, and there was not a better place to be."

He was inducted into the National Football League Hall of Fame on July 27, 1991.

Dick Modzelewski

National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame

Through three All-American years at Maryland, and 14 all-pro years in the National Football League, Dick Modzelewski was always Little Mo. At 6-0, 235 pounds during his playing days at Maryland he was one of the bigger collegiate lineman during the early 1950s. He was the second Mo at Maryland, so he had to be "Little" to his older brother Ed, "Big Mo."

Dick Modzelewski played three years as a defensive back for the Terps, on the great teams which were 24-4-1. He would become Maryland's first winner of a major national honor when he earned the Outland trophy as the nation's top lineman in 1952.

Throughout his career at Maryland, the Terps fashioned a 22-game unbeaten streak. The "Little Mo" led defense allowed only 147 points, with only four teams scoring better than one touchdown and six being shutout. In his three seasons, the Terps were beaten only four times.

At the end of his senior season, Modzelewski was named to every All-American team and was awarded the Outland Trophy. He was a second round draft choice of the Washington Redskins; his teammate quarterback Jack Scarbath had been the Redskins' first choice. Since then, he spent his life in the National Football League, splitting 14 seasons with the Redskins, Pittsburgh Steelers, and eventually becoming an All-Pro with the New York Giants and Cleveland Browns and playing on NFL championship teams with the Giants (1956) and Browns (1964). After his retirement as a player, he became a defensive line coach, helping the 1982 Cincinnati Bengals into the Super Bowl.

He was inducted into the National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame in 1993.

Jack Scarbath

National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame

Jack Scarbath is an integral part of Maryland football history. In his first start, the All-American quarterback scored the first touchdown in the new Byrd Stadium, a 21-yard run, in the first game of the 1950 season.

Scarbath was the quarterback for Head Coach Jim Tatum's new Split T offense for three seasons (1950-1952). Scarbath led the Terps to a 24-4-1 record including a perfect 10-0 record and Sugar Bowl victory in 1951. In that time, he rewrote the Terrapin record books. Scarbath completed 125 of 260 passes for 2,287 yards, an average of 18.3 yards per completed pass.

Following his senior season, Scarbath finished as the runner-up to Oklahoma's Billy Vessels in the voting for the Heisman Trophy, was a first team All-American quarterback and a first-round draft choice of the Washington Redskins.

He was inducted into the National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame in 1983.

Jim Tatum

National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame

In a brief time as a college football head coach, one season at North Carolina (1942, 5-2-2), one at Oklahoma (1946, 8-3, Gator Bowl victory over North Carolina State), nine years at Maryland (1947-55, 73-15-4, 1953 national championship, 2-2-1 in bowl games), Jim Tatum had become a coaching legend.

Tatum's teams from 1950-1955 were 51-8-2, with a perfect 10-0 record and a Sugar Bowl victory in 1953 and 10-0 regular season records in 1953 and 1955 before both teams were upset by Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl. The 1953 team was declared the college national champions.

Maryland enjoyed enormous success and have yet to regain the national heights of Jim Tatum's team's of the early 1950s. Tatum left Maryland to return to his alma mater, North Carolina, in 1956.

He was inducted into the National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame in 1984.

Bob Ward

National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame

Bob Ward weighed all of 165 pounds throughout his four-year playing career at Maryland, and even in the early 1950s, that was no size for a lineman. Especially a lineman who as a first team All-American middle guard as a junior in 1950, and a first team offensive guard as a senior in 1951.

The forte of the Maryland teams in the early 1950s was consistency, a winning consistency. Head Coach Bob Ward's four teams were a combined 32-7-1, including two bowl victories (1949 Gator over Missouri, 1951 Sugar over Tennessee to complete a perfect 10-0 season). Bob Ward was the heart and soul of those teams.

The awards and honors Ward earned as a Maryland players belie physical stature, but speak volumes about the man. He was the MVP of the 1949 Gator Bowl, Maryland's first bowl victory. He is the only player ever top earn All-American honors as both an offensive and defensive position player. He earned Southern Conference Player of the Year Honors as a senior and was chosen Lineman of the Year by the Washington Touchdown Club and the Philadelphia Sportswriters Association 1951.

Ward was inducted into the National Football Foundation College Football Hall of Fame in 1980.

Randy White

National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame

National Football League Hall of Fame

Lombardi and Outland Trophy Winner

Randy White changed the look of football defensive lines. At Maryland, and later in an All-Pro national Football League career with the Dallas Cowboys, he was regarded as the quickest defensive lineman to play the game. He could be in an opponent's backfield before a quarterback could make a hand-off.

In 1974, White cleaned up the college football awards plate. He was honored with the Outland and Lombardi trophies as the top collegiate lineman, the Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year, was a unanimous first team All-American choice, named the Delaware (his home state) Athlete of the Year, and named the Amateur Athlete of the Year by the Philadelphia Sportswriter's Association.

He was the first round draft choice of the Cowboys, the second player selected in the entire draft. White was an All-Pro throughout his career and shared Super Bowl MVP honors with Cowboy Teammate Harvey Martin when Dallas defeated Denver in Super Bowl XII.

No one else will wear "94" at Maryland' Randy White's number has been retired.

He was inducted in the National Football Foundation College Hall of Fame and the National Football League Hall of Fame in 1994.

The first capacity crowd in Gator Bowl history — attendance was 16,666 that day — witnessed one of the greatest games in the storied history of the bowl. A young Maryland team, underdog to an experienced Georgia squad, got up by 13 points in the fourth quarter and eventually settled for the 20-all tie. Lou Gambino was a one-man wrecking crew for the Terrapins, scoring the only touchdown of the first half on a 35-yard run. In the second half, after a Georgia score, Gambino scored on a 1-yard run and on a 24-yard pass from John Baroni. A series of special teams miscues — namely a short kickoff and mishandled punt — set up Georgia's comeback. Despite the tie, there was no question as to the game's most valuable player. Gambino won the Burkhalter Award, signifying the game's outstanding performer.

Three times in the first half Missouri turned the ball over and all three times Maryland took it in for touchdowns as the Terrapins handed the Tigers their second consecutive Gator Bowl loss. Defensive back John Idzik set up Maryland's first score with a 26-yard interception return to the Mizzou 11. Bob Shemonski scored on a sweep on the next play, and the rout was on. Ed Modzelewski scored on a three-yard run to give the Terps a 13-0 lead and Shemonski capped Maryland's scoring later in the second quarter with a six yard touchdown run.

In a game historians even today call the biggest win in Maryland football history, Jim Tatum's Terrapins upset the nation's No. 1 ranked Tennessee Volunteers of Gen. Bob Neyland. Buoyed by the running of All-American fullback Ed "Mighty Mo" Modzelewski (153 yards on 28 carries) and All-American quarterback Jack Scarbath, the No. 3 ranked Terps scored three TDs before the Vols got one in the first half for a 21-6 lead. They put the game out of reach in the third quarter with a 46-yard interception return TD by Ed Fullerton for a 28-6 margin lead. The Terrapin defense was brilliant all afternoon.

The arm of Scott Zolak produced 28 yard (to Mark Mason) and 15 yard (to Barry Johnson on fourth down and 12 at La Tech's 15-yard line) TD strikes, the latter coming with 52 seconds remaining. The Voices of Maryland Radio

Johnny Holliday
Play-by-Play

Johnny Holliday is a man for all Maryland seasons. As he enters his sixteenth year of play-by-play coverage of the Terrapin football and basketball teams, he has earned the title, "Voice of the Terps."

Besides doing Maryland radio, Holliday also hosts the Mark Duffner and Gary Williams coaches shows on television, and handles a myriad of speaking duties within the Athletics Department — whether at banquets or alumni groups.

Holliday's list of credits includes morning and afternoon sports reports heard across the nation on ABC Radio. He has also covered for ABC the Winter and Summer Olympic games (1984, 1988 and 1992), the Masters Golf Tournament, championships boxing, professional football, and numerous college football bowl games.

Holliday's announcing career allows him to lay claim to being Washington's most versatile broadcaster, and among the best nation-wide. Whether it be in radio, where he was named America's number one disc jockey during his rock'n roll DJ days, to his public address duties with the Cleveland Browns, Oakland Raiders, Golden State Warriors, to his work in Washington television for the Senators and Bullets, Holliday makes a complicated business look easy.

Besides hosting the Maryland coaches television shows on Home Team Sports, the region's premier sports channel, he is also seen there as host of Redskin General Manager Charley Casserly's show and as host of ACC Sports Sunday. He also does special events for HTS that include baseball, tennis, basketball, and track and field. Just when there seems to be no end to his ubiquitous appearances on television, Holliday is among the most visible announcers in regional television advertising.

A native of Miami, Fla., Holliday began his broadcasting career in Perry, Georgia, and through the years has worked in three of the nation's prime radio markets: New York City, San Francisco and Washington.

As deep as his broadcasting expertise is, his expertise at raising money for charity might be better. Washingtonian Magazine honored him as a Washingtonian of the Year for his many civic activities. His basketball and softball teams, the Radio Wonders have raised more than a million dollars for charity. He is involved in Special Olympics, Catholic Charities, Operation Smile, and the Boy Scouts of America. He has served as television host for the Easter Seals, Muscular Dystrophy, March of Dimes, and Leukemia telethons.

Johnny's show business career adds further to a unique resume. He was network announcer for variety shows, and was seen on ABC-TV's comedy series, Good Morning World. He is seen regularly at the local Harlequin Theater performing lead roles in musical comedies — Carnival, The Music Man, Bye Bye Birdie, and 42nd Street among them. For the latter show he was nominated for a Helen Hayes Award; he was also nominated for a Hayes Award for his lead role in Me and My Girl.

Johnny and his wife Mary Clare are the parents of three daughters. Kellie is a physician along with her husband Steve; they reside in Bel Air, Maryland. Tracie is a Neo-natal nurse at Children's Hospital; her husband Chris is an attorney and they live in Kensington, Md. Moira is a freshman at Georgetown Visitation Prep School in Washington.

Jerry Sandusky
Color Analyst

The choice seems obvious: Take a football player who grew up in a football family, who happens to man the sports desk for the Maryland region's largest CBS affiliate, and plug him into describing what's happening on the Maryland field of play.

Jerry Sandusky's first year of teaming with the smooth Johnny Holliday brought in-depth understanding of what the Terrapins were doing against the nation's toughest slate of opponents. Sandusky brought alive the x's and O's, like a coach's son.

John Sandusky is one of professional football's most respected coaches. Jerry grew up watching Dad coach the Baltimore Colts from 1959 to 1972, and he then moved to Miami to join former Colt head coach Don Shula. John has been with the Dolphins ever since, and serves as an Assistant Head Coach.

Jerry Sandusky played two years of football and one of basketball for Towson State, and graduated in 1983. He went to WBAL-TV in 1988, the sister station to the Terp radio flagship.

A native of Columbia, Md., Harris played for the Terp's for four years. He graduated in December of 1992, and works in the Athletics Department's Development Office.

The first commercially televised game

The first regularly scheduled, commercially televised production as we know it today came 54 years ago on October 5, 1940, when coaches Jack Faber and Al Heagy took their Black and Gold to Philadelphia to play Pennsylvania at Franklin Field. At that game were two TV cameras with telescopic lenses and a set of announcers (no, Johnny Holliday was not there). The signal was first fed through a production unit that selected the best action to be transmitted eventually to sets in Philadelphia and as far away as Reading.

The first couch potatoes were journalists at the Warwick Hotel, engineers from Philco, Inc., and viewers in many parts of the city, who had television sets that were able to receive programming from station W3XE (in later years NBC outlet WPTZ-TV and KYW-TV). The game was the opener for both teams, and was part of a golden era in Eastern football when teams like Pennsylvania led the nation in attendance.

The televised game most noted by historians as being first was an encounter between Fordham and Waynesburg (Pa.) at New York's Randall's Island in 1939. Compared to the 1940 production it was rudimentary, a one-shot experiment that ended with that game. Philco ran Pennsylvania games on television for 12 years following the debut game.

The end of the series came in 1953 when the NCAA sued Notre Dame and Pennsylvania, who had their own networks, for the exclusive rights to do all college game. Years later, the NCAA lost a lawsuit to Georgia and Oklahoma, who won the right to contract their own rights fees to television.

Working in the Pennsylvania athletic department during the Philco years was Castleman D. Chesley. Later he would become the genius behind televising Atlantic Coast Conference basketball, helping the league to dominate in televising it games before others thought of catching-up.

Hogwood, who is a familiar site during the winter circuit of ACC basketball games, was at one time the voice of the Birmingham Sallionsof the USFL, and the New Orleans Breakers.

Maryland and the ACC

The Atlantic Coast Conference was founded on May 8, 1953, and its origin solidified the South as a growing enterprise in intercollegiate athletics. For a half-century before, Southern schools competed in a variety of conferences, and at one time an unwieldy 23 schools competed in the Southern Intercollegiate Conference (1929-1932). Maryland joined the Southern Conference in 1921, and was a member when 10 schools spilt from the league to start the Southeastern Conference in 1932. The Terrapins and what was to become the ACC went back to a Southern Conference affiliation until the same factors that caused the old conference to disband occurred—too many disparate schools over too wide an area led to philosophical and logistical problems.

Maryland was the ACC's first football champion, and until recently ranked number one in both football championships won and total victories. In all sports, Maryland is the all-time conference leader in championships.

Clemson, Duke, North Carolina, North Carolina State, South Carolina, Virginia and Wake Forest were the other charter members of the ACC which was formed from the old Southern Conference. South Carolina withdrew in 1971 and Georgia Tech, which withdrew from the SEC in 1964, was admitted in 1978. Florida State was granted admission in 1991.

An Unequalled and Unique Atlantic Coast Conference Tradition ... Maryland Football

- Maryland football teams have more No. 1 rankings in the national polls than any other league team.
- Maryland has scored more points on the football field than any other ACC school.
- In the 1970s and 1980s, Maryland had more bowl appearances than any other league team.
- Maryland gave the ACC its first three consensus All-America players, its first National Coach of the Year, and its first National Championship.
- Maryland has set 11 ACC football records in twot years with its high-octane Run and Shoot offense.

An Unequalled League of Excellence ... The Atlantic Coast Conference

- ACC schools have won 50 NCAA & AIAW National Championships, including four in the 1992-93 academic year.
- Three of the last four NCAA Basketball Champions have come from the ACC.
- More than 100 student-athletes from league schools have won individual NCAA titles.
- Eight times in the last 13 years the College Football Association (CFA) has awarded its Academic Achievement Award — signifying the highest graduation rates among its membership — to an Atlantic Coast Conference school.
- More than 40 ACC student-athletes have been named first team Football Academic All-Americans.
- ACC schools have won National Championships in 11 different sports — football, men's basketball, women's basketball, baseball, men's lacrosse, women's lacrosse, men's soccer, women's soccer, field hockey, women's cross country and men's golf.
- ACC schools won two National Football titles in four years (1990 and 1993).

The Football Bowl Coalition

The Orange Bowl, Sugar Bowl, Cotton Bowl and Fiesta Bowl (Tier One) have joined with the Atlantic Coast Conference, The Big East Football Conference and the University of Notre Dame in a partnership to provide the opportunity for the champions of the two conferences and Notre Dame to appear in one of the four bowl games each year.

In addition, the ACC and the Big East champions are guaranteed a spot in the Orange Bowl, Sugar Bowl, or Cotton Bowl each year.

The current commitments of the conference champions of the Big Eight to the Orange Bowl, the Southeast Conference to the Sugar Bowl, and the Southwest Conference to the Cotton Bowl remain intact, leaving two additional berths open in the four Tier One coalition bowls. (ACC + Big East + Notre Dame + Big Eight + SEC + SWC = six slots filled of a possible eight.) These two slots will be filled from a pool of "at-large" teams which will include the next best teams (as selected by the Tier One coaltion bowls) from the following five conferences — ACC, Big East, Big Eight, PAC-10 (whose champion remains committed to the Rose bowl) and SWC. The three "at-large" teams not selected to the Tier One coalition bowls will then be available for selection to the Tier Two bowls of the coalition (Gator Bowl, Blockbuster Bowl, and John Hancock Bowl).

Since the original Bowl Coalition was signed, the ACC has added two more bowl alliances. This winter, a third ACC team will compete in the Peach Bowl and a fourth league team will participate in the Hall of Fame Bowl.

The team selection date for all the bowls involved in the coalition (Tier One and Two) will be following the completion of regular season play.

The selection process

1. Whenever Notre Dame, the ACC and The Big East champions occupy the number one and two rankings in the final regular season Associated Press poll, they must play the national championship game in the Fiesta Bowl.
2. Whenever the number one or two teams in the final regular season Associated Press poll come from among the ACC Champion, The Big East Champion or Notre Dame, and the host conference champion from among the Sugar, Cotton, or Orange Bowl is ranked number one or two, these teams must play one another in the bowl of the host conference champion.
3. Barring the above, the Orange Bowl, Sugar Bowl and Cotton Bowl will select first in order of the final rankings of their respective host conference champions. Following that selection, the Fiesta Bowl will have two selections from the remaining pool of five teams.
4. Once these selections have been completed the remaining three "at-large" teams will be available to the Tier Two bowls which will select one team each in order of per team net payout.
5. The ACC and Big East champions and Notre Dame have the right to pass a Tier One selection for a higher payout, to avoid a rematch of a regular season game, or to avoid playing in a particular bowl game for a third consecutive year.
6. A team may pass a selection to a Tier Two Bowl only to avoid a rematch of a regular season game, or to avoid playing in a particular bowl game for a third consecutive year.

National champion Maryland and 18th-ranked Duke tied for the ACC's inaugural grid title. The Terps finished the regular season with a perfect 10-0 record, including a 3-0 mark in league play. Maryland, which lost to Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl, 7-0, scored 298 points, the most by a team until 1967, while allowing an ACC record-low 31 points. The Terps led the nation in rushing defense, 83.9 yards allowed per outing, and scoring defense, 3.1 points per game. Terp tackle Stan Jones earned consensus All-America honors while teammate Bernie Faloney was named first team Academic All-America.

Dr. William E. Kirwan
University President

With over 25 years of experience as a faculty member and administrator at the University, Dr. William English Kriwan was appointed President of the University of Maryland at College Park on February 1, 1989. Dr. Kirwan has played a major role in determining the direction of the university, and his ability to envision greatness for College Park is a valuable asset as the campus intensifies its drive to become one of the best public universities.

Born on April 14, 1938 in Louisville, Kentucky, Dr. Kriwan, 56, has had a lifelong immersion in academia. In Lexington, where Dr. Kirwan spent his childhood on the University of Kentucky campus, his father, Dr. Albert D. Kirwan, began his career as a football coach, then became a history professor, dean of students, dean of the graduate school, and finally president of the university. His mother, Betty, was actively involved in the life of the campus and the community.

As a young child, Dr. Kirwan became known as "Brit" in reference to his middle name, English, and he goes by that nickname today. Both he and his older brother, Denny, who holds a chair in oceanography at Old Dominion University, were enthusiastic sportsman as they grew up, and Dr. Kirwan received a football scholarship to UK. He graduated from Kentucky with honors in mathematics (1960), and received his M.S. degree (1962) and Ph.D. degree (1964) in mathematics from Rutgers University.

Dr. Kirwan joined the mathematics department at College Park in 1964 as an assistant professor. He was promoted to associate professor in 1968 and full professor in 1972. He also served as a visiting lecturer at Royal Holloway College, University of London, in 1966-67 and returned to the University of London while on sabbatical leave in 1971-72.

From 1977-81, he was chair of the mathematics department, which has been ranked among the top ten mathematics departments among public universities in the nation by the National Academy of Sciences,

In 1981, Dr. Kirwan became vice chancellor for academic affairs, a position he held until 1988, gaining the additional title of provost in 1986. For a brief time, from August to November 1982, he agreed to serve as interim chancellor until the arrival of Dr. John B. Slaughter, the new chancellor. When Dr. Slaughter resigned in August of 1988, to become the President of Occidental College, once again, Dr. Kirwan was tapped to head the campus during the search for a new president.

Following the conclusion of a national search, Kirwan emerged as the top candidate, and, one February, 1, 1989, he was appointed president of the University of Maryland at College Park. (The title of chief executive officer at College Park was changed from chancellor to president on July 1, 1989 when the University of Maryland System was re-organized from five to 11 institutions).

Dr. Kirwan is known for his ability to see beyond the institution's day-to-day challenges, and for his talent as a consensus builder among the large and diverse campus community. Under his leadership, the university undertook a major restructuring of his academic organization, going from a divisional system to a more traditional system of schools and colleges. Subsequently, when the state's economic decline forced a reduction in this university's budget, he oversaw the streamlining of the university's academic offerings through the elimination of a college and 32 degree programs.

Dr. Kirwan has played a pivotal role in all of the university's most significant initiatives such as: increasing emphasis on undergraduate education; raising admission standards while reducing undergraduate enrollment; increasing the number of merit scholarships and graduate fellowships; recruiting and retaining outstanding faculty; and exceeding the desegregation goals for the enrollment of black undergraduate students.

Deeply involved in professional activities, Dr. Kirwan is the author of numerous research articles and was the editor of the Proceedings of the American Mathematical Society from 1977 to 1985. He was the co-editor, with L. Zalcman, of Advances in Complex Analysis. Dr. Kirwan's membership in honorary and professional societies include Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Kappa Phi, Omicron Delta Kappa, Sigma Xi, and the American Mathematical Society. He has served on many university and civic committees and task forces. He chaired the Mathematical Sciences in the Year 2000 Committee, a task force appointed by the National Research Council (NRC) to improve mathematics education at the nation's universities during the next decade and he currently serves as a member of NRC's committee on science literacy.

He is a member of the Board of Directors of the World Trade Center Institute, the Baltimore Council of Foreign Affairs and the Greater Washington Board of Trade. He also serves in the American Council on Education's Commission on Women in Higher Education and chairs the prince George's County Board of Education's Citizens Advisory Committee.

Because of his contributions to higher education, he was named officer in the Order of Leopold II by the Belgium Government and selected to the University of Kentucky's Hall of Distinguished Alumni.

Noted for his enormous energy and long work days, Dr. Kirwan regularly finds time to teach an undergraduate class. Whenever possible, he schedules time to enjoy classical music concerts and tries to find and hour or two each week to escape to a convenient tennis court where he is known as an excellent and very competitive tennis player.

Dr. Kirwan is married to Patricia Harper of Lexington, Kentucky. They have two children: a son, William E. Kirwan III, 27, a Washington architect who earned his baccalaureate and master's degrees from the university and a daughter, Ann Elizabeth, 22, a senior journalism student at College Park.

Dr. Suzanne Tyler Senior Associate Director of Athletics, Primary Women's Administrator

Dr. Suzanne Tyler is at the heart of Maryland athletics. Her 20 year association with the University of Maryland has seen her serve the athletics department in almost every capacity imaginable. From coach to administrator to confidant of student-athletes, Tyler envelopes herself in red and white.

Tyler currently serves the department as its Senior Associate Athletic Director and Primary Women's administrator.

When Maryland needed an interim athletic director in 1990 to direct its 23 sport intercollegiate athletic program, Tyler answered the call. She served in that capacity for nearly three months until the arrival of the new director, Andy Geiger.

Her success has been extraordinary on both the athletic and academic levels. She is one of only a handful of coaches in history to win NCAA championships in two different sports—lacrosse in 1981 and 1987 and field hockey in 1986.

Tyler performed double duty for the department in 1990. While serving as the chief athletic department administrator, she led the Terps' women's lacrosse team to the national championship game. She was named the women's lacrosse National Coach of the Year in 1984 and 1986.

Her career reaches into the academic realm, as well. She has earned academic honors at each stage of her career – as an undergraduate at Northeastern University in 1969, in receiving her master's degree from Penn State in 1972, and her Ph.D. from Maryland in 1986.

She is currently a member of the NCAA Women's Volleyball Committee.

Tyler and her husband Dennis Casey reside in Beltsville, Md. with their son Andrew and daughter Alexis.

A. Keith Inman Acting Associate Athletic Director for Advancement

Keith Inman, the athletic department's Director of Development for the past two years, was named interim Associate Athletic Director for Advancement in March. He oversees the offices of Sports Information, Marketing, Ticketing and Development. He is responsible for the running of the Terrapin Club and M-Club, the two graduate fund-raising arms of athletics.

Inman has overseen substantial growth in annual giving monies as the Director of Development, and implemented many reforms regarding the management of the Terrapin Club, M-Club, Capital Campaign and Maryland Educational Foundation. He oversees all fund raising activities for athletics.

Inman, 36, prepared for his more elaborate Maryland duties by holding several positions, including Ticket Manager, at the University of Louisville. A 1978 graduate of the school in biology, he worked as an alumni officer upon graduation, and after a stint in the private sector, returned to Louisville in 1985. He was appointed Ticket Manager in 1986, Assistant Executive Director of the Cardinal Athletic Fund and marketing assistant in 1988, Coordinator of Athletic Development in 1988, and Executive Director of the Cardinal Athletic Fund in 1989. He held that position for three years before being appointed Assistant Athletic Director for Development at Maryland in March of 1992.

Keith and his wife Susan are expecting their first child. They live in Bowie, Maryland.

Sandra P. Worth
Head Athletic Trainer

Sandy Worth begins her third year as the University of Maryland's Head Athletic Trainer. She was elevated to the position on July 1, 1992. Worth has been a member of the athletic training staff at Maryland since 1973.

As head trainer, Worth directly supervises the athletic training of the football team. She directs the operations of Maryland's state-of-the-art training room in the Football Team Complex which was constructed in 1992.

Worth supervises and schedules a staff of five full-time assistants and a staff of student trainers, organizing the training responsibilities for each of Maryland's 23 intercollegiate sport programs.

Worth served as associate athletic trainer before her appointment to the head trainer position. As associate trainer, she managed the main training room in Cole Field House. She was responsible for 14 teams which included the nationally competitive women's basketball, lacrosse and field hockey teams along with the wrestling and men's and women's swimming and diving teams. Worth also supervised the instruction of the student trainers working with the various athletic teams. She was the trainer for three national championships by the women's lacrosse team and one by the field hockey team. In addition, she was the trainer for the women's basketball team as it won eight ACC titles.

Worth was the head trainer for the 1989 and 1993 U.S. Women's Lacrosse team which both won World Cup Championships. In 1993, she accompanied the team that won the championship in Scotland.

Worth received her B.S. in physical education from Maryland in 1973. She is a native of Timonium, Md., where she attended Dulaney High School.

Jim Weir
Assistant Athletic Trainer

Jim Weir begins his 24th year as an assistant trainer at the University of Maryland. He will assist Head Trainer Sandy Worth with football again this season; his 23rd year working with the sport.

Weir is involved in all aspects of the athletic training and injury rehabilitation efforts for the football program.

A Michigan native, Weir attended Olivet College before enlisting in the United States Navy in 1960. He served 10 years in the Navy as a hospital corpsman 2nd Class. Weir graduated from the Navy Physical Therapy Technical School. He worked as an assistant athletic trainer at the U.S. Naval Academy before coming to Maryland.

Weir has worked with a number of championship sports during his tenure at Maryland. He has worked with nine football bowl championship teams including the 1975 Gator, the 1977 Hall of Fame, 1984 Sun and 1985 Cherry Bowls winners. In addition, he was the trainer the 1973 and 1975 NCAA Men's Lacrosse Championship teams and four ACC championship wrestling teams during the early 1970s. He has enjoyed three different stints working with the wrestling teams for a total of 14 years.

He and his wife Merlene have three children: James, Robert and Christina.

Kevin McLaughlin
Assistant Athletic Trainer

Kevin McLaughlin begins his second year as a member of the University of Maryland Athletic Staff. McLaughlin assists with the year round football training duties and concentrates on working with the nationally ranked women's basketball team during the winter months.

McLaughlin came to Maryland from Loyola College in Baltimore where he had worked from 1990-93. While there, he worked with the women's soccer, women's basketball and nationally ranked women's lacrosse teams. He also worked closely with Loyola's club and intramural teams.

He attended Towson State University where he earned his bachelor's degree in general studies in 1989. He went on to earn his master's degree in education from the University of Virginia in 1990.

While at Towson, McLaughlin was a student trainer from 1985-1989. He gained extensive athletic training experience as he worked with Tigers' football, basketball and baseball teams.

While at Virginia, McLaughlin served as a graduate assistant athletic trainer at Longwood College while earning his master's degree. While there he supervised ten student trainers and the daily operations of the 14 sport training room.

McLaughlin is a native of Long Island, NY.

Dr. Stan Lavine
Team Physician

Dr. Stan Lavine, head orthopedic surgeon for Maryland's 23 intercollegiate athletic teams, has roots that grow deep into Maryland's red clay. He first served the Terps as a football quarterback in 1948 and 1949, and has since served the Terps from the medical profession.

A native of Pittsburgh where he attended Schenley High School, Dr. Lavine matriculated at Maryland to prepare for his medical career. He played football initially for Clark Shaughnesy, one of football's great innovators. By the time of his 1950 graduation, he had led Maryland to, under then Head Coach Jim Tatum, a 9-1 season and a 20-7 victory over Missouri in the Gator Bowl as the team's quarterback. Following his graduation from the University's Medical School, he interned at hospitals in Philadelphia and Cleveland, served two years in the Air Force, and then began his orthopedic medical practice and work with Maryland's athletic teams.

Dr. Lavine has attended all home football and basketball games and some road games and is on call at all times for the University's 23 sports teams. His professional reputation is national in scope and many prominent athletes regularly seek his treatment. He was the team physician for the Washington Redskins (1975-85), and was there for two Super Bowls. He was the team physician for the Washington Bullets when they won the NBA Championship in 1978. Working with Lavine is Dr. Dave Linehan, another highly regarded orthopedic surgeon. Linehan worked at the University's Student Health Center before deciding to go into orthopedic surgery. He has been associated with the University's athletic teams since 1973.

Supporting Lavine, Linehan and Head Trainer Sandra Worth on a day to day basis are Drs. Scared Bodison and Steve Fahey of the University's Student Health Center. Dr. Bodison is Clinical Director and Director of Sports Medicine. She, along with Fahey, take care of the daily medical problems that might occur in all sports. Diagnosis and treatment are overseen at the training rooms and at the Health Center. If necessary, they refer student-athletes to specialists through Worth.

Equipment Staff

Ron Ohringer is in his seventh year as the Terps' Head Equipment Manager. Ohringer oversees the ordering, inventory, maintenance and distribution of all athletic equipment for the university's 23 intercollegiate sport programs. While managing the overall equipment operation for the entire department, Ohringer concentrates on football on a day-to-day-basis.

A native of Bethesda, Md., Ohringer attended the University of Maryland. He received his bachelor's degree in journalism and public relations. While he was a student, he served as a football team student manager and was selected as the head student manager during his senior year.

He has worked as a public relations assistant with both he Washington Redskins and Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League, in addition to working for the Arena Football League and the minor league Alexandria Baseball Dukes.

Ohringer was married on November 28, 1992 to Amy Brennan. The couple resides in Burtonsville, Md.

Ohringer manages a staff of one full-time and two part time assistants. John Bowie is in his first year as the full-time assistant while Ron Fulton and Pat Gallagher are part-time assistants.

Bowie is in his fifth year with the program. Bowie's main responsibilities surround the nationally ranked men's basketball team. He also assists with football and works with women's basketball, volleyball, wrestling, and men's and women's swimming teams. He is a 1976 graduate of Bowie State University. Bowie is married to the former Marsha Silver. The couple has two boys: Darrin and Adrian.

Fulton is entering his 23rd year in the Maryland equipment room. After spending 15 years with the Macke Corporation on campus he was hired as the head equipment manager in 1972. Fulton retired after 16 years and now works part-time.

Pat Gallagher, a 1994 Maryland graduate, is beginning his first year on the equipment staff. In addition to working with football, he will manage the equipment room in the varsity sports team house. He duties will include the sports of baseball, men's and women's soccer, men's and women's track and field and field hockey. While he was a student, Gallager was a team manager for the football team and the head manager during his junior and senior years. He received his bachelor's degree in government and politics.

The Equipment Staff: Assistants John Bowie, Pat Gallagher and Ron Fulton; Equipment Manager Ron Ohringer.

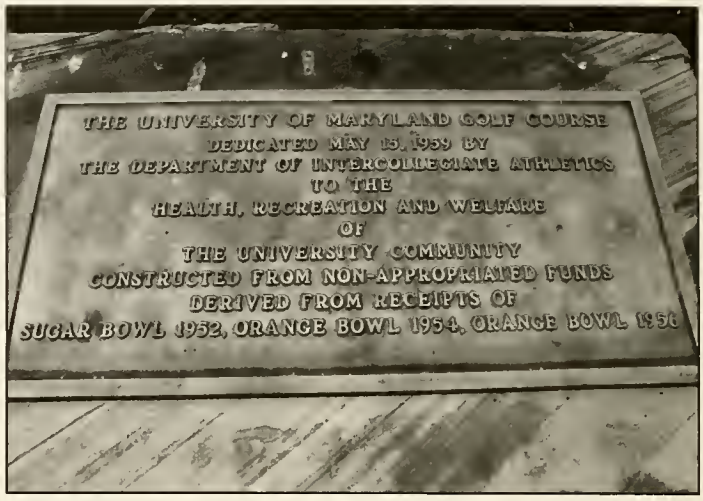
Grounds Staff

Keeping Maryland's seven intercollegiate athletic fields playable is the responsibility of the grounds crew. William "Bunk" Carter and Bill Reinohl work to see that all of the Terps' student-athletes compete on fields that are well kept, consistent in quality and meet all NCAA and ACC playing standards.

Carter, the head groundskeeper, is in his 33rd year at the University. He has spent his entire career caring for the athletic playing fields. Carter has worked for six athletic directors and eight football coaches. He has seen the Terps win six Atlantic Coast Conference football championships and play in 12 bowl games.

Reinohl is in his 16th year on the staff, his 12th as a full-time employee. He began working on the playing fields as a student in 1979 and was hired as a full-time employee in 1983. He earned his B.S. degree in agronomy in 1983 and earned his a second B.S. degree in conservation/resource development in 1987, both from Maryland. Reinohl is an accomplished lecturer, giving speeches regarding his fields of study.

The grounds staff provides year round maintenance for six natural grass fields and one artificial turf facility. Their work includes a fertilization/herbicide program, painting and stenciling fields for the various sports, stadium cleanup, and field upkeep and renovations.



As the plaque located between the No. 1 and No. 10 tee boxes indicates, the Maryland Golf Course was built with monies derived from the football programs success.

The Grounds Staff: Director Bunk Carter, Todd Boyle, Mac Wallace, and Assistant Director Bill Reinohl.

The Terrapin was hoisted onto it's Byrd Stadium pedestal for the first time in September of 1992.

Maryland practice fields, just beyond the Football Complex, had new Bermuda grass surfaces installed over the summer. Byrd Stadium has been regraded and also newly seeded with Bermuda.

Maryland's new $2.5 million track and field/soccer complex features a newly sodded Bermuda grass surface, and on the track and field event areas and on the 400 meter track a state-of-the-art all-weather surface. Construction takes place into the fall of 1994.

Terrapin Club, M Club combine 119 years of scholar/athlete support into single mission

TERRAPIN CLUB

Two traditional graduate arms of Maryland Athletics, representing friends and alumni of athletics for a combined 119 years, are joining forces to meet the extraordinary needs of today's student-athlete. The Terrapin Club/Maryland Educational Foundation, which for 48 years has been raising scholarship monies, and the M Club, the alumni letterwinners support group for 71 years, will now have common gift-giving levels and goal support of Maryland's 24 sport program.

CLUB

The Terrapin Club/Maryland Educational Foundation

The Maryland Educational Foundation was founded on July 1, 1946, at the urging of Clark Shaugnessy, the football coach. The social segment of the organization, the Terrapin Club, was founded later that year.

The membership started with 132 friends of Maryland athletics each donating $100 for scholarships and an additional $25 for social dues. The early years featured philanthropic support for Terrapin scholarships, which were partly supported by athletic department revenues. What was an informal orgnaization giving much needed help to Maryland athletics became an integral part of the budget process with the soaring costs of intercollegiate athletics in the 1970s. Now most scholarship revenues for Terrapin student athletes come from the Maryland Educational Foundation. In 1993-94, $2.3 million was raised by the M.E.F. from 3,600 members.

The M Club

Like so many other worthy projects at the University, the M Club had Dr. H.C. "Curley" Byrd on board at the start as the club's first president in 1923. Byrd was putting the finishing touches on the first Byrd Stadium complex built along U.S. 1, down campus from the present stadium, and monies were needed to fill needs beyond bricks and mortar. The present University of Maryland at College Park was formed in 1920, and Byrd was finally getting the athletic complex he had desired for years. The M Club was formed to meet the needs of a bigger, larger athletic department, to supply support for the student-athlete now that a new complex was built. The same philosophy drives the M Club today as it provides support for student-athletes through its 1500 active members at a time when facilties are being built, and additional funds are a priority.

The Terrapin Club, one of the fastest growing booster clubs in the country, and the M Club, alumni letterwinners supporting the student athlete, invite friends of Maryland to make a commitment.

The Maryland Spirit epitomizes The Spirit of Maryland

The Maryland Spirit organization is a group of 30 selected student volunteers who provide recruiting, public relations and office support for the football program. The members of the organization commit to contribute service hours around their academic schedules, utilizing their personal skills and abilities.

The members of the Spirit assist in recruiting within Athletic Department and NCAA regulations. Members are expected to provide recruits and their families with detailed information regarding the university, the athletic department, the football program, the state of Maryland and its surrounding communities. Among the many functions of the Spirit are providing campus and football facility tours for prospective student-athletes and becoming role models for youth in health and charitable organizations.

Officers for the 1994-95 academic year are Mariann Miceli (advisor), Sonia Huntley (director), Bree Wagner (assistant director), Kinika Clay (coordinator), Karyl Henry (first assistant coordinator), Mikki Scarlotta (second assistant coordinator), Gab Descoteau (secretary/treasurer) and Debbie Aaronson (alternate officer).

FOOTBALL IN THE PARK

The University in the Park

History of College Park

Just after the American Revolution, the state of Maryland established its first two colleges at Chestertown and Annapolis. By the 1850s, at least 30 little colleges had sprung-up over the state, many with state support, but many of them disappearing within a few years. Then in 1859 a different kind of institution appeared at College Park—the Maryland Agricultural College—the third such college in the world, created mainly for farmers' sons. The college was established by Charles Benedict Calvert, a wealthy planter from nearby Riversdale—now Riverdale—and later a congressman. Calvert built a handsome Gothic dormitory-classroom structure located in a grove of trees near the present Morrill Hall, and he divided the land down the Baltimore-Washington Turnpike into small plots where each of the 50-or-so students experimented with a different crop. After the Civil War the institution became a land-grant college, with small appropriations from Washington. The little college began to grow about 1900 when agricultural experiments began to bring prosperity to Maryland, and when the college expanded its offerings into engineering, business and the liberal arts. In 1912 the old Gothic building burned, and the state provided modern structures. Women were admitted to the campus, and graduate work began. In 1920 the college combined with the long established professional schools of Baltimore and changed its name to the University of Maryland. Growth accelerated after 1935 when the politically astute football coach, H.C. "Curley" Byrd, became president, added scores of new programs, and won national football championships. In the 1950s and 1960s President Wilson H. Elkins maintained the rapid growth, and College Park became one of the largest campuses in the nation. President Elkins, a Rhodes Scholar, transformed the institution's public image to one of high academic integrity. In the 1970s and 1980s the University's graduate and research programs flourished. In 1988 the General Assembly of Maryland combined six state colleges with the five campuses of the University of Maryland, and specifically charged College Park with the role of leadership in the revamped system.

The new College Park metro station makes it easy for students to travel to Washington, D.C. and all of its surrounding areas.

The National Archives II, which opened in January of 1994, offers a great research source for campus students.

Team Maryland: An academically-sanctioned outreach program for student/athletes

University of Maryland student/athletes aren't just stars on the playing fields, but in the classrooms of area schools as well.

Since the fall of 1992, 110 student/athletes have participated in Team Maryland, a program in which student/athletes involved in a variety of sports and academic fields travel to local schools to share positive, personal messages. The messages are based on the motto "You Can Make It Happen."

Football co-captain Steve Ingram helps his new friend Albert put the ball through the hoop. Even though Ingram is kept extremely busy through schoolwork nand practice, he still makes time to speak with area students

The Team Maryland program began in the fall of 1992. Dr. Georgia Sorenson, director of the university's Center for Political Leadership, felt that putting academics and athletics together in a leadership program would benefit both the athletes and students in the community. Involvement in Team Maryland has increased each semester, and it remains the only academically-sanctioned outreach program for student/athletes in the country.

The student/athletes involved in Team Maryland take a course offered through the Behavioral and Social Sciences department's Center for Political Leadership and Participation. Participants must be of junior standing and carry a G.P.A. of 2.7 or greater. Members of the program receive professional speech training throughout the semester from Baltimore radio broadcaster Doug Roberts. This training provides Team Maryland members with the skills to speak with confidence not only now, but in their professional careers as well.

Team Maryland continues to grow each semester as more local schools learn about the benefits of the program. More than 14,500 elementary, middle and high school students have listened to members of the team. Rotating groups of five student/athletes visit schools every weekday to talk about relevant topics such as drug and alcohol abuse and the prevention of teenage pregnancy. Football players such as Steve Ingram and Allen Williams stress the importance of academics and the need to feel good about oneself. Team members, along with coordinator Matt Haas, also lead sessions in which the students set weekly goals to be accomplished.

The University in the Park

Making the first year special at Maryland

The University's First Year Focus program is designed to see that the new student gets off to a good start at College Park. It has three parts.

■ To make sure the new student becomes acquainted with the campus's most important resource-its faculty-First Year Focus provides the student with the opportunity to study with a member of the faculty in a small class, appropriate for first year students, devoted to that faculty member's scholarly interests.

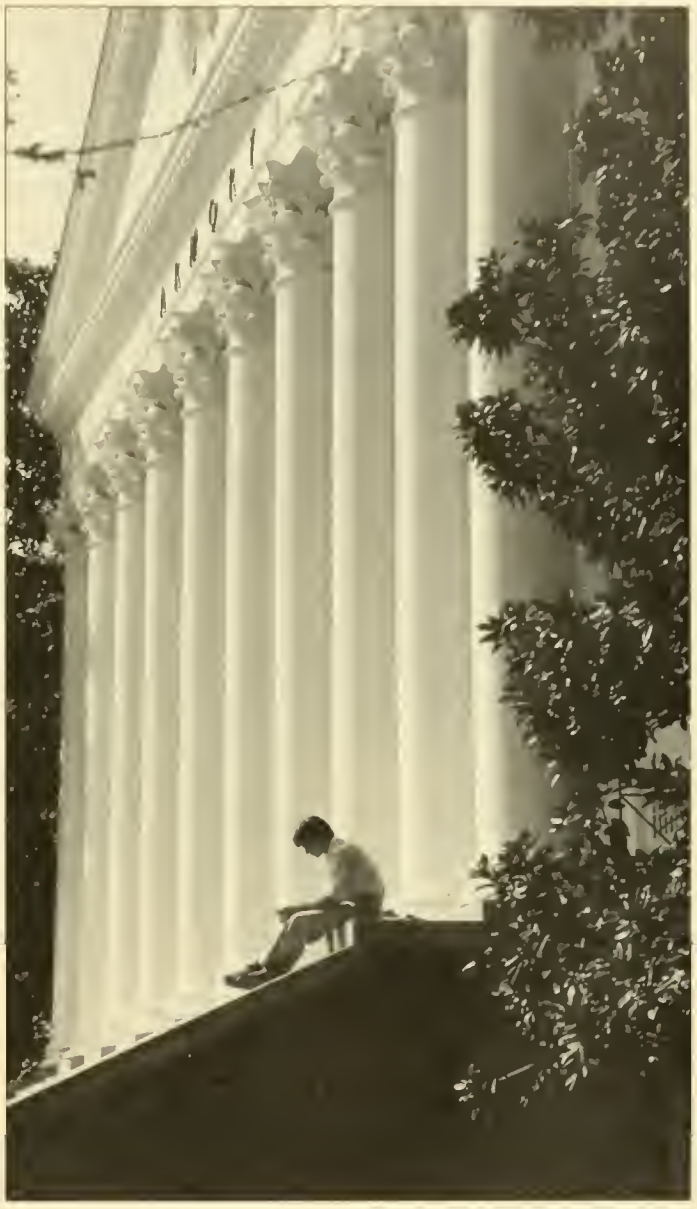
■ The University invites the new student to participate in an innovative program called Connections: Course Clusters, which enables them to enroll in a variety of thematically related courses, supplemented by a one-credit linking seminar. Course Clusters not only allows the new student to examine a given subject intensely from a variety of disciplinary perspectives, but will also provide the opportunity to develop a network of friends who share intellectual interests.

■ The Student Government Association arranges for the new student to participate in its First Year Books activities. SGA selects a noteworthy book which it hopes will be an intellectual starting point for the incoming class of students. Many courses adopt it and incorporate it into their curricula. The book inevitably becomes subject to campus-wide debate in seminars, lectures, and even performances. The new student's copy of the selected book is waiting at orientation.

First Year Focus is designed to make the big university small, to allow the vast resources of a research university with some of the intimacy of a small college. The College Park Scholars Program and the University Honors Program also serve the same end.

■ College Park Scholars is a new program designed to acquaint entering first-year students with the rich texture of academic life at the university. The program encourages students who share common intellectual interests to study together in courses organized around common themes and to live together in a selected residence hall. The Scholars program provides a focus for study, advising and a variety of educational and social activities.

■ The University Honors Program provides the university's most academically talented students a challenging and exciting range of seminar-style classes, a close-knit community, and contact with outstanding faculty. Typically, freshmen and sophomores broaden their intellectual horizons in a wide variety of specially designed Honors seminars and Honors versions of regular courses, most of which fulfill general education requirements. A Honors lecture series, a literary magazine as well as a vibrant social and cultural life complement the academic offerings. Many of these activities take place in Anne Arundel Hall, the Honors Living Learning Center, which is the center of the Honors Program.



College Park Academic Support

An insistence on doing well

Towards a student-athlete's development, ASU provides

- Personal academic assessment
- Academic advising and counseling
- Supervised study
- Learning and study skills programs
- Computer training and usage
- Group and individual tutoring
- Career mentoring
- Summer internships

There is an insistence in the Maryland football program that student-athletes get a degree in a career field that will enhance their life after College Park. The insistence is underlined by Coach Mark Duffner and his staff, by the athletic administration, and by the Academic Support Unit of the Department of Athletics.

Dr. Javaune Adams-Gaston, educator and clinical psychologist, is the Assistant Athletic irector for Athletic Student Services. She oversees the student-athlete's educational and medical well-being by her management of the Academic Support Unit and the Athletic Medicine support staff.

A 1978 graduate of the University of Dubuque with a B.S. in biology, psychology and general sciences, she earned her Master's degree in Clinical Psychology from Loras College in 1980 and her Ph.D in Counseling Psychology from Iowa State in 1983. She was appointed to direct student counseling in the athletic department in 1988.

Dr. Adams-Gaston regularly provides time for individual student-athletes as educational advisor and counselor. Her hands-on approach extends to a thorough series of seminars she and her staff hold that train the student-athlete in pertinent education beyond the classroom. Seminars cover time management, study skills, stress management, motivation, drug education, career planning and vocational mentor ship. The school year begins for newly recruited student-athletes with not only an academic orientation program, but also a seminar on inter-acting with the news media by nationally known expert Kathleen Hessert.

Assisting Dr. Adams-Gaston are three experienced assistants.

John Bowman is Associate Director for Student Services for Academic Support. He returns to Academic Support after spending the past three years in the Office of Undergraduate Admissions. He had previously been Senior Advisor in Academic Support from 1987 through 1991. He was also an Athletic Advisor in 1986 in the Department of Undergraduate Studies, and a coordinator in the campus's Intensive Education Development Program (1979-1986).

A 1969 graduate of Oberlin, he earned a Master's in Education from Case-Western Reserve in 1976.

Liz Friedman begins her fourth year as a full-time athletic department employee after four years of assisting student-athletes on a part-time basis in the ASU. A native of Rockville, Md., and a graduate of College Park, she coordinates the Academic Support Unit's satisfactory progress monitoring system for all athletes, and works daily with the football team in all aspects of academic support. The monitoring system is effective because of the full communication between the ASU staff, the faculty, and student-athletes.

Don Pearman's expertise includes seeing that worthy athletes continue their education beyond College Park.

John Bowman returns to the Academic Support Unit this year. His experience assisting student-athletes with their schoolwork makes him a valuable part of ASU.

College Park Academic Support

Don Pearman is in his third year at College Park, but his experience in the University System numbers five years. He formerly was program director of the Meyerhoff Scholarships at the University of Maryland at Baltimore County campus. A model program of minority recruitment in the fields of mathematics and science, the Meyerhoff program is widely emulated. In the ASU, Pearman is responsible for post-graduate scholarship endeavors, the unit's tutorial program, and he monitors six Varsity sports.

Pearman, a native of Brooklyn, N.Y., received both his Bachelor's degree in sociology and his Master's degree in counseling from St. Lawrence University.

Towards a good start

The Academic Support Unit will teach an orientation course for freshman student athletes (Education 108, Orientation to the University) to start the fall semester. The program will be taught by the Academic Support staff and concentrated on skills and development issues. The course is intended to make the transition to college life user friendly.

The program allows the newcomer to balance the dual responsibilities of academics and athletics in an unfamiliar environment. Student athletes are taught organizational skills, which include note taking, time management, pro-active planning, learning strategies, test-taking, and writing skills.

Liz Friedman works on a one-on-one basis with student-athletes in all sports to insure that they are succeeding with their academic work.

Along with overseeing football player's educational and medical well-being, Dr. Javaune Adams-Gaston also counsels student-athletes in areas such as time management and career planning.

Football Academic Leaders

Russ Weaver, who led the Atlantic Coast Conference in receiving, was named first team ACC All-Academic at the conclusion of the season. While he was catching 69 passes, and tying the school record for receptions in a game (14), Weaver was also earning a 3.40 GPA as a Finance Major in the School of Business.

Surrounding the Park — Washington and Baltimore

Maryland's state-of-the-art press facilities are matched by a major media market

Competitive excellence leads to media attention. In the Washington/Baltimore metropolitan market, the fourth largest in the nation, that means notice in one of the three major media centers in the United States.

Maryland has the press facilities to match the importance of the media market. A new $3.4 million dollar press box, the Tyser Tower, can seat 200 print media on its third level, and on the fourth level are state-of-the-art facilities for television and radio. Maryland's post game press conferences are held in the Football Complex Hall of Fame Room, and are telecast to both media and guests of the University in the Tyser Tower.

■ Within the Metropolitan market, two of the nation's top ten newspapers, the Washington Post and Baltimore Sun, cover the Terrapins extensively.

■ The nation's newspaper, USA Today, is headquartered 20 miles from Byrd Stadium. No matter where you live, USA Today informs its readers about the Metropolitan area.

■ Almost 1,000 periodicals and magazines are published in the Metropolitan area.

■ Every major network—NBC, ABC, CBS and Fox—has a major news gathering affiliate station in both Washington and Baltimore. No major market in the East can boast eight significant television news outlets within 35 miles of a campus. And Washington has an additional 24 hour all-news television station.

■ NBC, ABC, and CBS also maintain their own news bureaus in Washington, as does CNN (Cable News Network) and PBS (Public Broadcasting). In addition, major cable outlets like BET (Black Entertainment Network) are headquartered here. In radio, each major network has a Washington bureau, and Mutual Radio, NBC Radio and National Public Radio are headquartered in the Metropolitan region.

■ One of the Associated Press's largest news bureaus is in Washington, as is its radio division. Bureaus are maintained by the New York Times and every leading news service. International news organizations like Reuters cover Maryland events, and countless news organizations and networks from around the world have bureaus in Washington.

Surrounding the Park — Washington and Baltimore

A good neighborhood—The National Capital, the Inner Harbor and Camden Yards, the Chesapeake Bay and Annapolis

The Park is surrounded by chances to recreate and sight-see, by opportunities in the arts and sports, by chances to visit mountains or shore. It's a good neighborhood.

■ Washington is located just over three miles from Byrd Stadium. The National Capital's major attractions are within 10 miles. Making the trip easier is the Metro Rail System, which began connecting College Park to the rest of suburban Maryland, the District of Columbia, and Northern Virginia, in December of 1993. Within walking distance of campus, or accessible by campus shuttle, the station allows easy access to one of the country's model transportation systems.

■ Baltimore is located 35 miles north of the College Park campus. Its rejuvenation as an urban center is unprecedented: The Inner Harbor, its National Aquarium and tall ships, and the near-by Orioles Park at Camden Yards, create an exciting, vibrant, holiday atmosphere in a city that boasts one of the world's great sea ports. The heart of Maryland, the Chesapeake Bay, is 20 miles from campus, and the state capital, Annapolis, is 30 miles.

The State Capital, Annapolis

■ Washington and Baltimore may be reached easily from anywhere in the United States and the World. USAir, which is headquartered in the Metropolitan area, uses Baltimore/Washington International Airport as a hub. Both BWI and Dulles Airport, which is a hub for United Airlines, are international airports, capable of providing service to any continent. College Park is 10 minutes from the Amtrak Northeastern Corridor and frequent train service up and down the East Coast.

■ Media Center, Transportation Center, Government Center: the parts of the Metropolitan region add-up to a center for business and industry.

THE COVERS: The Football in the Park theme is represented on the front cover by the ultimate park guards: Offensive linemnen John Teter (76), Jamie Bragg (77), Steve Ingram (54), Jade Dubis (53) and David Hack (74). The back cover's scenic overlook of campus was accomplished by athletic department photographer Lisa Helfert, who needed a helicopter for that photo. Her color photography is featured on all covers. The University's Creative Services office and John Consoli are thanked for help with the campus map. All of the cover layouts were polished by the extraordinary talents of Dave Pfeiffer of Presstar Printing.
